

More Aftershocks Shaking China; Casualties Rise

TOKYO (A) — Foreign residents left Peking and Tientsin today for places of safety as the Chinese government reported 110 aftershocks — an average of nearly five an hour — in the devastated Tangshan area.

The aftershocks Saturday night and Sunday, combined with such other indications as nervous behavior of animals in the Peking Zoo, prompted new warnings from Chinese seismologists that a new major quake was imminent. It was the third such warning since Friday.

David Dean, deputy chief of the U.S. Liaison Office in Peking, said 18 wives and eight children of members of the American staff were leaving today, but there were no plans yet to evacuate any of the 31 staff members.

The British Embassy sent 50 dependents off Sunday. Planes leaving the Chinese capital were booked to capacity for the next few days with families of diplomats bound for Canton, Hong Kong or Tokyo.

The diplomats themselves and other foreigners joined millions of Chinese camping outside, away from big buildings.

Japanese correspondents in Peking said the Foreign Ministry's information bureau reported 110 aftershocks between 6 p.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday. It said all registered at least four on the Richter Scale, and 15 registered more than five.

The first quake early Wednesday registered 8.2 on the Richter Scale, the highest reading recorded in the world since the Alaska quake in 1964. It devastated the heavily populated Tangshan area 100 miles east-southeast of Peking, caused widespread damage in Tientsin, China's third largest city 40 miles south of Tangshan, and did lesser damage in the capital.

A second quake about 15 hours later registered 7.9 on the Richter Scale.

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. In populated areas, an earthquake of 4.0 on the Richter scale can cause moderate damage, 5.0 considerable damage, 6.0 can be severe. A reading of 7 is a major earthquake, capable of widespread, heavy damage; 8 is a "great" earthquake, capable of tremendous damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the Richter Scale.

Though the Chinese have not reported the number of casualties, tens of thousands are believed to have died in Tangshan, a coal mining and industrial city of 1.6 million.

There was speculation that thousands of miners might have been trapped. But Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said "an overwhelming majority of the miners who were underground when the earthquake struck returned to the surface safely."

A "mighty contingent" of rescue workers converged on the Tangshan area from all parts of China, Hsinhua reported.

The Chinese government refused all offers of aid from the United States and other foreign countries. But Hsinhua said manpower, medicine, food, and prefabricated houses and bridges poured into the stricken area from Peking, Shanghai, Tientsin, the Liaoning peninsula, and from Shantung, Honan, Fukien, Kiangsu, Shansi and Hupeh provinces. Even distant Sinkiang sent help.

Scientists Ponder Mars Oxygen Data

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Information that may — or may not — point to the existence of life on Mars continues to pour in from Viking 1. Scientists are trying to figure out just what it means.

Viking scientists said Sunday that the data, including an unexpected abundance of oxygen in one of Viking's life-seeking probes, might be signs of Martian life. But they also said nonliving chemical agents — such as peroxide crystals — could be causing the reactions.

"It would just be silly of us to say we know what the data means," said Dr. Gerald Soffen, chief Viking scientist.

What excited scientists over the weekend was the discovery in one of the experiments of 15 times the amount of oxygen they had expected. They said the oxygen could be evidence of living systems but that any number of chemical processes could also explain its presence.

"They (the biologists) are wracking their brains trying to decipher the

Top Rams Up For Sale

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some of the top rams in Ohio will be on display and up for sale Friday in the Ohio Ram Test Program sale at the Eastern Ohio Resource and Development Center near Belle Valley.

The sale begins at 6 p.m. Friday following Sheep Day, which will feature an explanation of how the test rams were fed and managed during their test.

Some of the rams have been gaining over one pound a day during the test period and one was gaining 1.5 pounds a day. Comparing this growth rate with cattle, a 600-pound bull would have to gain 15 pounds a day to match the performance of some of the rams.

Rams to be sold at the auction will be selected on the basis of average daily gain while on test. Only the top 75 per cent of each breed will be sold after being screened for soundness. Performance data will be available for all rams in the sale.

Colorado Flood Kills 58; Hundreds Stranded

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — "The people in the restaurant began screaming. Within seconds, the restaurant, still full of people, plunged into the river. It was some sort of a dream. It wasn't really happening."

But it was, for Douglas Magill of Mishawaka, Ind., and his wife, Phyllis. And for hundreds of other persons stranded as a 12-foot wall of water surged down a Big Thompson Canyon west of here, killing at least 58 persons.

Hundreds of survivors were ferried out by helicopter, or carried out, or led out, on Sunday. Other hundreds remained stranded today as the search for bodies continued.

These are the stories some survivors brought out with them.

Douglas Magill: "I looked out and I saw a group of people standing out in the rain, watching the river. I said, 'Honey, you'd better get dressed.'"

The Magills' trailer was parked beside a motel and campground. The Big Thompson River snaked by outside. It was climbing, fast, when Magill moved his car to higher ground, then turned around. One of three bridges near the motel collapsed.

Magill: "Then the motel office went ... then a house went ... just floating down the river. Boulders bigger than a car would be thrown up out of the water and against another boulder. They sounded like thunder and shook the ground."

Jerry Alanko, Estes Park, Colo., rescue worker: "There were cars floating by, and people inside the cars were waving flashlights for us to help them. There was nothing we could do. You just had to watch them nosedive...."

"Over the bridge, people at the motel were screaming and running up the hill. Propane tanks were just hissing. You could smell it."

Alanko and his wife opened their home to victims of the rising water.

King And Queen, Talent Contests Open Fair

By CRAIG ALLISON

Herald Staff Writer

The 1976 Pickaway County Fair got into full swing Sunday evening at the annual king and queen contest and talent show. This portion of the fair is always a highlight of the week, and Sunday's program did not disappoint anyone.

TERRY HAMPTON
1976 Fair King

Crowned as queen of the 1976 edition of the fair was Miss Ann Congrove, 17, of Kingston. Miss Congrove's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Congrove. She was representing the Logan Elm Fashionettes in the competition.

Miss Congrove also has the honor of being a member of the reigning Pumpkin Show Court. She was selected first attendant in the city's annual fall classic. The lovely lady will be a senior at Logan Elm High School this fall.

At Logan Elm, Miss Congrove has been active in cheerleading, National Honor Society, Student Council and the Skanda staff.

Crowned as king of the festivities was Terry Hampton, representing the Comancheros 4-H Club. Hampton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Hampton, Stoutsville. He will celebrate his 17th birthday Wednesday.

Hampton will also be a senior at Logan Elm High School this fall. There, he has been active as a junior leader, a member of the Varsity Club and the Bowling Club. He is also a member of the ECY Youth Group at church.

The first runners-up to the fair queen and king were Becky Conley and Marlon Luckhart.

Miss Conley represented the Future Farmers of Monroe 4-H Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Conley, Route 1, Mt. Sterling. The 17-year-old lass was a 1976 graduate of Westfall High School and will attend Morehead State University this fall. While at Westfall, she was active in cheerleading, junior editor of the yearbook and served as the vocational agriculture secretary.

Luckhart, 17, is the son of Mrs. Wanda Butler, Route 4, and Dave

Weather

Mostly sunny this morning, turning cloudy this afternoon and tonight with a chance of showers or thundershowers. Partly cloudy and warmer Tuesday. High today in the upper 70s with a low tonight in the middle 50s and temperatures in the lower 80s Tuesday. Chances of precipitation, 30 per cent today and tonight and 20 per cent Tuesday. High Saturday was 86 with a low during the night of 57. Sunday's high was 77 with 51 being the low temperature during the night.

Luckhart, Washington C.H. Luckhart represented the Saltcreek Livestock 4-H Club. He will be a senior this fall at Logan Elm High School where he is active in the Future Farmers of America, the Logan Elm Varsity Club, Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Morris Youth Fellowship.

Pickaway Countians can also rest assured that they have a wide range of talent in the area. Anyone who witnessed last night's talent show will agree.

The show acts covered everything from the Muppets to piano solos. The talent show was held in conjunction with the king and queen contest.

Taking first place honors were Dan, Don and Robin Ervin, a brother-sister act that did a puppet sketch using television's famed Muppet characters.

According to the Ervins, who are members of the Act IV Drama 4-H Club, the Muppet characters are owned by the Circleville First Baptist Church of which the three youngsters are members. The church uses the Muppets in play productions which contain messages of the Bible and teachings of the church.

Capturing second place in the talent show was Miss Beth Hindy of the Super Sonic Sewers and Orient Road Runners 4-H Clubs. Beth did a baton routine to "A Fifth of Beethoven" and won over several other baton acts presented during the evening.

Catching third place in the competition were the Spirit of '76 Dancers, representing the Equestrian Clover Leaf Riders and Alice's Angels 4-H Clubs. The act was composed of Suzanne Demarest, June Rainier and Kathy, Cindy and Jessie Woodruff.

Fourth place honors went to "America's 4-H Marching On." The act was a huge flag and drill show. The 4-H clubs participating were Saltcreek Sew and Serve, Saltcreek Swine and Sheep, Saltcreek Livestock Beef and Dairy, and the How and Why of Conservation.

Members taking part in the act were Julie Hinton, Stephanie Jones, Becky Myers, Beth Reichelderfer, Meg Everett, Beth Webb, Kim Roark, Kim Williams, Teryl Hartranft, Melinda Hupp, Suzanne Everett, Trina Hartranft, Terra Martin, Jeanne Stuckey, Terri Williams and Cindy Pennington.

The award for fifth place went to Ginger Patterson who charmed the

Bloodmobile Scheduled Thursday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Circleville on Thursday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Community United Methodist Church.

In stressing the importance of this visit, Blood Program officials called attention to the recent news items on crisis-level blood shortages in Cleveland and Boston.

So far, the Central Ohio Blood Center has not faced a shortage this severe — but it could happen here, if no one gave blood in summer, if industries and businesses no longer allowed employees time to give blood, if no one ever gave his first pint of blood, if news media no longer covered the need — in short — if no one cared. Only the community can determine that it does not happen here.

There are 34 open-heart surgeries scheduled in Columbus hospitals during August. Pickaway County has been requested to recruit 20 extra A-positive and O-positive donors, 3 A-negative, 4 O-negative and 4 B-positive. Donors known to have these types and all others are urged to make an appointment by calling 474-5736.

NEW ROYALTY — Miss Ann Congrove was crowned queen of the 1976 Pickaway County Fair Sunday evening. She is shown here being escorted to the speaker's platform by 1975 King Jim Fausnaugh moments after the decision was announced. The 1976 king is Terry Hampton. Runners-up were Becky Conley and Marlon Luckhart.

crowd with a piano solo of the "Black Hawk Waltz."

The king and queen contest and talent show were sponsored by the Circleville Jaycees. Presenting the awards to the winners was Jaycee President, Robert Conley.

The man who kept the whole show running smoothly was the emcee for the evening, Rick Sabine.

Midway Chatter

Posttime for today's races at the Pickaway County Fair will be 3:45 p.m. because of the large field. There are 18 heats of racing on the program.

Race secretary John Fissell reported that a total of 126 horses will go postward today and tomorrow.

Our handicappers have been hard at work analyzing the field of entries and here are the "Penthouse Picks" for today's races (The editor has little faith in the selections and therefore The Herald will not be responsible for any financial losses incurred at the mutual windows by readers of this column):

Race 1 and 6 — Priceless Dream, Fast Bret, Steady Charity. Race 2 and 7 — Steady Messenger, Gay Frisky, Gold Star Scott. Race 3 and 8 — Flatwood Leah, Garys Filly, Joseph Franklin.

Race 4 and 9 — Captain Car Lith, BMW, Timely Evelyn. Race 5 and 10 — Tag On, Little Frosty, Sugar Valley Miss. Race 11 and 15 — Stork, Bev Ron, Sandy Maid.

Race 12 and 16 — Tornado Jet-ferry, Margie Coaltown, Frank Merriwell. Race 13 and 17 — HMC, Bobby Reef, Avalon Kren. Race 14 and 18 — Rawleigh's Move, B. G. Break, Stone Road.

The "Stall Cleaner" has some different notions about the class of each race. Here are his selections: Race 1 and 6 — Andrea, Priceless Dream, Spinnie. Race 2 and 7 —

Gay Frisky, Fritzie, Jenuine Jerry. Race 3 and 6 — Joseph Franklin, Flatwood Leah, B. F. Lad.

Race 4 and 9 — Oaklawn Knight, Captain Car Lith, BMW. Race 5 and 10 — Tag On, Edgewood Leary, Steady Little Lady. Race 11 and 15 — Ideal Buckeye, Bev Ron, Stork.

Race 12 and 16 — Tornado Jet-ferry, Circle, Margie Coaltown. Race 13 and 17 — HMC, Beau Skipper, Bobby Reef. Race 14 and 18 — Hilcrest Story, Rawleigh's Move, B. G. Break.

The Stall Cleaner's selections for Tuesday are:

Race 1 and 4 — Libby Way, Meadow J. B., Patty A. Race 2 and 5 — Starmett, Skippy Doo, Miss Rhonda. Race 3 and 6 — Southward Ho., Mr. Speck, John The Merchant.

Race 7 and 11 — Scotch Dart, Plum, Bystand. Race 8 and 12 — Marble Top, B. D. Renee, Mr. Mayor. Race 9 and 13 — Drizzle, Eileen's Reporting, No Better Time. Race 10 and 14 — Belt Hill, the Big W, Preble Dee.

Here are the "Penthouse Picks" for Tuesday's races:

Race 1 and 4 — Libby Way, Piper Pink, Meadow J.B. Race 2 and 5 — Skippy Doo, Starmett, Miss Rhonda. Race 3 and 6 — Plunker, John The Merchant, Southward Ho.

Little Movement In Coal Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Picket lines today dashed the hopes of West Virginia coal operators that some miners would break ranks in a two-week-old wildcat strike that has spread to 80,000 miners in seven states.

"It didn't pan out," said a spokesman for Consolidation Coal Co. Pickets were marching at its 11 mines, which employ 3,700 men, and no workers showed up for the early shift. A spokesman at the Eastern Associated Coal Co.'s Federal No. 1 mine at Grant Town said "a carload and a truckload" of pickets appeared and no miners reported for work.

Meanwhile, many of California's canneries reopened after settlement of a harvest-time strike by 60,000 cannery workers, and the nation's air traffic controllers ended a work slowdown that caused delays at a few airports. No solution was in sight, however, for the rubber workers strike that has idled 60,000 workers for 104 days.

A weakening in the coal strike had seemed likely after United Mine Workers' District 31, representing about 20,000 miners in northern West Virginia, voted over the weekend to heed its leadership's call to return to work today.

But more than 1,500 miners in the southern areas, including the 213 members of Local 1759 who started the strike, vowed Sunday to press their walkout, despite a federal judge's offer to cancel $300,000 in fines if they went back.

Local 1759 president Hayes Holstein had predicted after the vote that "if they (miners in the north) go back, we'll just send up pickets and have them out again."

The weekend meetings had been called at the direction of UMW President Arnold Miller, who told local union presidents on Friday in Charleston, W.Va., to order their members back to work.

The miners said they would not return unless they got to meet with officials of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association to discuss their grievances. They claim the association relies too much on the courts to solve disputes which could be handled at the local level through union grievance procedures.

Local 1759 struck last month over a job-posting grievance at the Cedar Coal Co. mines. When a judge fined the local $50,000 plus $25,000 a day, other locals joined the strike in sympathy. By Friday, an estimated 80,000 miners were out in West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

—California's 76 canneries began reopening to process tomatoes, apricots, pears and peaches after 13 Teamsters locals representing 60,000 cannery workers ratified a settlement late Friday of an 11-day strike. The three-year pact, hammered out by negotiators in Washington, will raise the current $4.93 hourly wage by $1.60.

—The Federal Aviation Administration said air traffic controllers had ended their four-day "work by the book" slowdown after the FAA agreed to expedite action on a pay reclassification study.

—U.S. Labor Secretary W.J. Usery said he would "double our efforts" this week to settle the strike over wages by the United Rubber Workers against the four major tire makers. The latest negotiations for a new three-year contract broke off last Thursday.

MOTORCYCLE WINNERS — Ron and Martha Clay of Ashville show off the Yamaha motorcycle she won in the Amazing Plastic Card contest sponsored by WBNS Radio. Columbus. The number on Mrs. Clay's card was picked Thursday and she rushed to Columbus to claim it within the hour. It's valued at $900.

Claim Vietnamese 'Dying Like Flies'

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — About 20 Americans and Vietnamese with American passports are believed still in Vietnam following the arrival in Bangkok of 49 Americans and dependents of Americans from Saigon.

One of the arrivals, Frederick Gulden, 54, an architect from Chicago, Ill., reported that Vietnamese who were moved out of the cities to new agricultural areas being opened up are "dying like flies" from disease and lack of medical care.

Several of the evacuees said the Communist government wants to get rid of all the several hundred foreigners still in Vietnam. Most of them are French or Vietnamese with French citizenship.

The Americans remaining include Richard Hughes, who set up a foundation to help abandoned children; Teresa Ann Reed; and two men believed in jail in Hanoi, John H. Gay and Tucker Gugelman.

Hughes and Miss Reed are expected to leave soon. Gay is believed to have been in jail for some time, while Gugelman was accused of working for the Central Intelligence Agency.

A State Department official in Washington said there also are about 16 Vietnamese-Americans or Vietnamese holding American passports who have not been allowed to leave. U.S. officials say they expect them to get out eventually.

Many of the Americans were glad to leave Vietnam; some were not.

Herman A. McDonald, 36, of San Rafael, Calif., wanted to stay. He lived like a peasant and raised pigs with his Vietnamese wife and four children on a farm in the Mekong Delta. He was ordered to leave, and no explanation was given. His family stayed behind.

"I wanted to stay in Vietnam ... to serve in any way I could, even work as a laborer," said Yee Leong Ching, a Hawaiian of Chinese descent. "I applied for citizenship but never heard from the authorities."

Gerald Posner, 26, a mailtruck driver from Brooklyn, N.Y., returned to Saigon two days before the war's end to look for a girl he met while he was a soldier, Tu Thi Nhan. He found her, brought her back with him, and told reporters, "Yes, it was worth going in and getting stuck in Saigon."

Among the others evacuated Sunday were Richard Morris Mielke, 47, a former Army sergeant who was representing a group seeking information on Americans missing in the war; Sherman H. Bennett, 39, Denver; Kerry Huebeck, 33, Ocala, Fla.; Fred Hohn Rivera, 33, Denver; Ford W. Thomasen, 56, San Mateo, Calif.; William G. Cooper, 39, Denver; William J. Smith, 27, Detroit; Maurice J. Bauhahn, 31, Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Paul Louis Horton, 32, Wilton, Conn.

Like Posner, Smith went back to find his girl friend, but he found she had married someone else.

Bauhahn, a laboratory technician at the Seventh Day Adventist Hospital in Saigon, applied for Vietnamese citizenship but was turned down.

The group included 14 Vietnamese women, most of them wives of Americans, and 12 children.

2 Toledo Men Die In Crash

MOORLAND TOWNSHIP, Mich. (AP) — Two Toledo, Ohio, men were killed Saturday morning when their car crossed the centerline of Mich. 46 in Muskegon County and crashed head-on into another vehicle, the sheriff's department said.

Authorities identified the dead men as Thomas Jarosi, 23, and Mike McManus.

19 Persons Harmed By FBI Activities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says it has found 19 people who suffered actual harm because they were the targets of an FBI harassment campaign in the 1960s and early 1970s.

One person was fired from a job and others suffered from invasions of their privacy. Some lost face with their colleagues because they were falsely branded police informers.

Department officials reported those findings as they discussed their four-month effort to locate the victims and tell them what the FBI did to them.

Federal marshals delivered messages informing the 19 people that they had been targets of the FBI counterintelligence programs, known as Cointelpro, to harass and disrupt militant political groups on the right and left.

Cointelpro, which operated from 1956 to 1971, involved such tactics as sending anonymous derogatory letters to the parents and employers of political activists and distributing phony leaflets to stir dissension within political organizations.

The Senate intelligence committee reported earlier this year that FBI headquarters had approved more than 2,300 separate Cointelpro acts.

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi denounced the operation and launched the plan to notify the victims of actual harm last April. He left it up to a three-member department committee to review the cases and determine who was hurt.

Some Justice Department officials have expressed concern that the notifications could set off a round of lawsuits seeking damages from individual FBI agents.

A committee member, Richard Rogers, said notification letters had been delivered to 19 persons as of mid-July. Dozens of others will be notified this month.

Department officials refused to name the 19 persons but said four were targets of the FBI campaign against the New Left, 11 were targets of the campaign against black militants, three were targets of the campaign against white hate groups and one was a target of the disruption of the Communist party.

In other recent developments:

—District Atty. Dale Tooley in Denver said he has subpoenaed FBI officials in his investigation of an alleged burglary at the Socialist Workers party headquarters there. FBI documents released by the Socialist Workers indicate that a paid FBI informant turned over missing party papers to the FBI within hours of the burglary.

—Justice Department prosecutors say they will go to a grand jury within a few weeks with evidence against FBI agents or officials involved in burglaries in the New York area.

—Associate FBI Director Richard G. Held acknowledged that he was responsible for disruptive Cointelpro tactics against political militants in the Minneapolis area while he was running the FBI office there from 1962 to 1973. Held, now the No. 2 man in the FBI, said he was not directly involved in day-to-day activities of the program.

Little Movement In Coal Strike

A Page Of Opinion

Undiplomatic Diplomat

Laszlo Toth, Yugoslavian-born naturalized American, once again is free and back on American soil. No thanks, both he and the U.S. Ambassador to Yugoslavia say, to the American State Department.

One year ago, Toth returned to his native Yugoslavia and revisited a sugar refinery where he once worked. Now research chief for an American sugar company, Toth said he was doing nothing more than trying to make business contacts for his current employer when he was arrested by Yugoslav authorities on charges of "economic espionage."

Toth was sentenced to seven years in prison and in the year since his trial he has been kept incommunicado from American embassy personnel, an unusual restriction even for a communist country. But Toth did have someone fighting for him, the U.S. Ambassador to Yugoslavia, Laurence H. Silberman.

After Silberman obtained Toth's release from Yugoslavia and saw him board a plane for the United States, the ambassador opened up. During the entire year he was trying to obtain Toth's release, Silberman said, he not only had to contend with Yugoslav authorities but outright obstruction on the part of the State Department's Eastern European Desk.

Instead of helping him help Toth, Silberman said, State Department officials sought to have him reprimanded for "undiplomatic conduct."

Added the ambassador: "When we get to the point where we don't care about an American citizen innocently imprisoned, then we're not much of a country any more." Congratulations to the "undiplomatic" diplomat. May his numbers multiply.

Patron Saint

By JIM BISHOP

We must have losers. They make the winners look good. Men who are chronically defeated by life are often stout and amiable. In the main, they outlive the pressurized successes. That's their revenge.

These are the men who buy the first Edsel, invest in a pill guaranteed to double gasoline mileage and are stuck with narrow gauge ties and herringbone television sets.

The patron saint of losers is a loveable man named Ambrose E. Burnside. He was a Civil War general. With intense application, Burny could convert a timid victory into a resounding defeat.

At his wedding to Mary Bishop in 1852, the bride took a second look at Burnside and shouted, "No!" She fainted. The lady was revived with spirits of ammonia and, somewhat addled, nodded yes.

Ambrose was a West Point cadet. He graduated near the bottom of his class, which was undistinguished. The yearbook shows that he would be remembered for his singing and cooking.

Later he invented the Burnside breech-loading rifle. He built the Bristol Rifle Works in Rhode Island and turned out guns like hotcakes. The government viewed them as hotcakes, and refused to buy any.

Ambrose went broke and returned to the army. The chronic loser is seldom depressed. This man became so fat that, when he mounted a horse, the nag became depressed.

In Washington almost everyone admired Burnside. He was no threat to anybody. He designed his own uniforms, with enormous yellow sashes at the waist, and grew hair down the sides of his jaw. The public called them sideburns.

In the Civil War, Abraham Lincoln promoted him to major general. This is akin to putting a nut behind the wheel at the Indy 500. Ambrose was sent down the Caroline coast to harass the rebels and pity of it is that he did well.

Burnside's success went to Lincoln's head. Burnside wasn't fooled. He knew himself. He declined the command of the Army of the Potomac. General McClellan, friend of Ambrose, said, "He is very slow, not fit to command more than a regiment."

At Antietam, Burnside was in command of two army corps. He claimed he wasn't in command. McClellan begged him to take the lead in battle. When the engagement started, Burnside gave the day off to his staff officers to attend a funeral. The loser lost.

It didn't destroy the general, because this was what he expected of life. Lincoln fired McClellan and forced Burnside to take command of the army. It did not occur to the President that McClellan had to fight Robert E. Lee AND General Burnside.

Burnside went into a period of intense inaction. He drew up an elaborate plan to march on Richmond. Lincoln said he would rather see the general fight Robert E. Lee and destroy the Confederate Army. Ambrose won the war of words and got his block knocked off.

He was indeed manly. Burnside wrote to Lincoln: "It is my belief that I ought to retire to private life." The President believed in omens. He began to smell a no-win aura about Burnside.

Ambrose was canned, and not a moment too soon. He was worth a whole army corps to Robert E. Lee. The jolly general was sent to the Department of the Ohio.

Somehow, he returned to the war and managed to lose 4,000 soldiers before Petersburg. General Meade demanded that Burnside be court-martialed. Ulysses S. Grant said that

Ambrose had "integrity."

The North was winning in 1864, and Burnside decided to take his integrity home and resign his commission. Mrs. Burnside, a meek masochist, remained at the side of her husband.

Lincoln asked Grant and Henry W. Halleck why Burnside always appeared to walk under a dark cloud. The generals shrugged. In the War Department, those who studied Burnside's biography tried to hide it from the world.

On April 14th, 1865, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln sat in a box at Ford's Theatre. The play, "Our American Cousin," was half over. The second scene of the third act was in progress when the President was distracted by a "harrumph!"

He looked down to the orchestra. The President nudged Mrs. Lincoln and pointed. There was Ambrose E. Burnside, the good-luck charm, waddling down the aisle to sit, too late to see the play, too early for the assassination...

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

Your July 26 article on crime by Jim Bishop was one of the most mindless, hate-filled editorials I have ever read. I cannot understand why a family newspaper printed it. Apparently the Herald sides with that great mass of "law-abiding" citizens who by their words and actions make a mockery of Christian morality and most of nature's laws of human behavior as well.

They would deny that life can be measured like flour, yet they think one murder can be vindicated with another. They'd like public executions to scare the criminals however, they forget that public executions didn't slow down crime in 17th century England and it is doubtful if it would now. And these people will say on Sunday that all men are brothers, all the same inside, and work on Monday to destroy the vicious, depraved criminal, an animal they have no love for.

They, the good people in this society, treat the bad like the scum of the earth, not remembering that those treated like scum will sooner or later feel that they are scum, and then they will surely act like it with the idea imbedded in their souls.

They forget that every society that tried to take away the threat posed by its undesirables through bloodshed, through "cruel and unusual" punishment, every society like that — revolutionary France, czarist Russia — fell.

They forget, don't know, don't remember, or try not to.

Mr. Bishop thought that he might sound callous. He didn't. He sounded barbarous.

Sincerely,
Allen Strous

Fair Campers Discouraged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Expositions Commission acted Thursday to discourage youngsters from camping outside the fairgrounds gates for weeks prior to the opening of the state fair.

Instead of honoring the actual first fairgoer as has been the practice in the past, fair officials will hold a drawing at the nearby Ohio Historical Center early on the morning of opening day, Aug. 26.

The youngster holding the winning ticket then will be driven to the fairgrounds to be honored by Gov. James A. Rhodes as the first visitor.

Fair Manager John Evans explained the reason for the change:

"With some young people camping at the gate for as long as three weeks in order to claim the honor, we believe there is a definite hazard."

He said officials feared that a youngster would be hurt or be the victim of a crime.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO
PROBATE DIVISION
In the Matter of the Adoption of
SALLY RENEE MURRIEL SPEAKMAN
No. 76-29643
NOTICE

David Charles McGrady, whose place of residence is unknown, is hereby notified that on the 9th day of July, 1976, a complaint for the adoption of Sally Renee Murriel Young, who was born on the 22nd day of October, 1970, at Lancaster, Ohio, was filed in the Court of Common Pleas, Probate Division, Pickaway County, Ohio, and that the hearing on said complaint will be had before the Judge of said Court on the 23rd day of August, 1976, at 10:30 A.M.

It is alleged in said complaint that you, as the father of said child, have wilfully failed to properly support and maintain said child for a period of more than two years immediately preceding the filing of said petition.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, August 2, the 215th day of 1976. There are 151 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in History: On this date in 1934, Adolf Hitler became dictator of Germany after the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

On this date: In 1610, the English navigator, Henry Hudson, entered the body of water now known as Hudson Bay.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How do you feel about the recent report that alcoholics can learn to drink again in moderation?

Mr. G. J., Tex.

Dear Mr. J.:

I am confused by this report. It's from a group of reputable scientists who have come to a rather premature conclusion that known alcoholics can again begin to try social drinking without necessarily returning to their former pattern of alcohol abuse.

The report of the scientists does not agree with the findings of psychotherapists and the practical concepts of Alcoholics Anonymous and the National Council on Alcoholism.

The physical and psychological accomplishments of alcoholics are too great to be toyed with. The possibility that a few known alcoholics might be returned to a life of "social drinking" is far too great a risk, in my opinion, in view of the overwhelming majority who would again return to their former destructive patterns.

I do not deny that research should continue on alcoholism as a personal and family disease. The possibility that alcoholism has genetic, hereditary and metabolic implications must be pursued just as diligently as is the cause and cure for other illnesses.

Only in this way can this and other scourges of mankind be eliminated or controlled.

Those who have been able to conquer alcoholism and return to productive, serviceable lives must not be tempted by "scientific studies" until there is positive knowledge of the safety of such a course.

Extended scientific programs must satisfactorily explain why alcoholism tends to follow a family pattern. They must also explain why alcoholics totter on the brink of destruction before they embark on a program of rehabilitation.

Scientists must also positively explain why even with the most intensive programs some alcoholics continue to "break" and begin new bouts of drinking.

I cannot deny the statistical reports of the scientific evaluators who arrived at the conclusion that four per cent of alcoholics can again begin their drinking patterns. I can very specifically relate my own scientific study of one case.

A patient of mine, aged 29, enthusiastically received the news of the research findings that you refer to. He has been on a 10-day binge of heavy drinking which has undone eight years of intensive effort to free him from the albatross of alcoholism.

Amish Still Battle Ohio Traffic Law

KENTON, Ohio (AP) — Though the Amish in this northwestern Ohio town are characteristically reserved and unassuming, they are embroiled in a court battle with the Hardin County officials by claiming that a state traffic law violates their right to religious freedom.

The law requires that slow moving vehicles, including their buggies and wagons, must carry a triangular reflective sign so they can be seen at night by motorists.

A suit is pending in U.S. District Court in Toledo challenging the law. The usual fine for violating it is $25. But the Amish say at least five members of their 500-member community in Hardin County have had their buggies confiscated and sold at a sheriff's auction for violating the law requiring the emblem.

"We are a plain class of people," said one Amish man, who asked not to be identified on religious grounds. "That symbol wouldn't be very plain."

But the spokesman for the 500-member community said the local sect does use a gray reflectorized tape to mark their wagons and buggies. The Amish put their faith in God to protect them, he said, but "we also believe in safety devices."

Hardin County Sheriff James Baldridge says he has no animosity toward the Amish community. But county officials say there have been several accidents involving motor vehicles and Amish buggies. And Baldridge is out to enforce the law.

"People started calling me up and saying 'I nearly hit an Amish buggy. Do something about it.' So we started arresting them," said Baldridge. "The only thing we've ever done is arrest them at night," he said. "We haven't enforced the law in the daytime."

The Amish say they didn't file the federal suit themselves. But they say a document was signed permitting the names of four sect members to be used as plaintiffs in the case.

The law requiring the safety signs was changed in 1975 to include not just farm equipment but all slow-moving vehicles, according to Hardin County Prosecutor James Crates. But a spokesman says an amendment to that bill is pending in the Legislature.

Meanwhile, representatives of farm groups and county officials stress there is no organized campaign against the Amish.

"We would like the public to know that no one is persecuting the Amish," said James Milroy, Farm Bureau director in Hardin County and an advocate of the safety emblem law. "If the motorist saw it on some things and not on others, the whole thing would be diluted," he said. "It's a matter of safety."

Ohio University Increases Tuition

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University trustees voted Saturday to raise student tuition $15 per quarter to compensate for funds lost to Gov. James A. Rhodes 2 per cent budget cutback.

Based on enrollment projections of 14,000 students this fall, the trustees said the hike would recapture $490,000 expected to be lost to the cutback.

The undergraduate quarterly tuition will rise to $290 while the graduate student tuition will go up to $340.

Undiplomatic Diplomat

Lazlo Toth, Yugoslavian-born naturalized American, once again is free and back on American soil. No thanks, both he and the U.S. Ambassador to Yugoslavia say, to the American State Department.

One year ago, Toth returned to his native Yugoslavia and revisited a sugar refinery where he once worked. Now research chief for an American sugar company, Toth said he was doing nothing more than trying to make business contacts for his current employer when he was arrested by Yugoslav authorities on charges of "economic espionage."

Toth was sentenced to seven years in prison and in the year since his trial he has been kept incommunicado from American embassy personnel, an unusual restriction even for a communist country. But Toth did have someone fighting for him, the U.S. Ambassador to Yugoslavia, Laurence H. Silberman.

After Silberman obtained Toth's release from Yugoslavia and saw him board a plane for the United States, the ambassador opened up. During the entire year he was trying to obtain Toth's release, Silberman said, he not only had to contend with Yugoslav authorities but outright obstruction on the part of the State Department's Eastern European Desk.

Instead of helping him help Toth, Silberman said, State Department officials sought to have him reprimanded for "undiplomatic conduct."

Added the ambassador: "When we get to the point where we don't care about an American citizen innocently imprisoned, then we're not much of a country any more." Congratulations to the "undiplomatic" diplomat. May his numbers multiply.

Patron Saint

By JIM BISHOP

We must have losers. They make the winners look good. Men who are chronically defeated by life are often stout and amiable. In the main, they outlive the pressurized successes. That's their revenge.

These are the men who buy the first Edsel, invest in a pill guaranteed to double gasoline mileage and are stuck with narrow gauge ties and herringbone television sets.

The patron saint of losers is a loveable man named Ambrose E. Burnside. He was a Civil War general. With intense application, Burny could convert a timid victory into a resounding defeat.

At his wedding to Mary Bishop in 1852, the bride took a second look at Burnside and shouted, "No!" She fainted. The lady was revived with spirits of ammonia and, somewhat addled, nodded yes.

Ambrose was a West Point cadet. He graduated near the bottom of his class, which was undistinguished. The yearbook shows that he would be remembered for his singing and cooking.

Later he invented the Burnside breech-loading rifle. He built the Bristol Rifle Works in Rhode Island and turned out guns like hotcakes. The government viewed them as hotcakes, and refused to buy any.

Ambrose went broke and returned to the army. The chronic loser is seldom depressed. This man became so fat that, when he mounted a horse, the nag became depressed.

In Washington almost everyone admired Burnside. He was no threat to anybody. He designed his own uniforms, with enormous yellow sashes at the waist, and grew hair down the sides of his jaw. The public called them sideburns.

In the Civil War, Abraham Lincoln promoted him to major general. This is akin to putting a nut behind the wheel at the Indy 500. Ambrose was sent down the Caroline coast to harass the rebels and pity of it is that he did well.

Burnside's success went to Lincoln's head. Burnside was not fooled. He knew himself. He declined the command of the Army of the Potomac. General McClellan, friend of Ambrose, said, "He is very slow, not fit to command more than a regiment."

At Antietam, Burnside was in command of two army corps. He claimed he wasn't in command. McClellan begged him to take the lead in battle. When the engagement started, Burnside gave the day off to his staff officers to attend a funeral. The loser lost.

It didn't destroy the general, because this was what he expected of life. Lincoln fired McClellan and forced Burnside to take command of the army. It did not occur to the President that McClellan had to fight Robert E. Lee AND General Burnside.

Burnside went into a period of intense inaction. He drew up an elaborate plan to march on Richmond. Lincoln said he would rather see the general fight Robert E. Lee and destroy the Confederate Army. Ambrose won the war of words and got his block knocked off.

He was indeed manly. Burnside wrote to Lincoln: "It is my belief that I ought to retire to private life." The President believed in omens. He began to smell a no-win aura about Burnside.

Ambrose was canned, and not a moment too soon. He was worth a whole army corps to Robert E. Lee. The jolly general was sent to the Department of the Ohio.

Somehow, he returned to the war and managed to lose 4,000 soldiers before Petersburg. General Meade demanded that Burnside be court-martialed. Ulysses S. Grant said that

Ambrose had "integrity."

The North was winning in 1864, and Burnside decided to take his integrity home and resign his commission. Mrs. Burnside, a meek masochist, remained at the side of her husband.

Lincoln asked Grant and Henry W. Halleck why Burnside always appeared to walk under a dark cloud. The generals shrugged. In the War Department, those who studied Burnside's biography tried to hide it from the world.

On April 14th, 1865, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln sat in a box at Ford's Theatre. The play, "Our American Cousin," was half over. The second scene of the third act was in progress when the President was distracted by a "harrumph!"

He looked down to the orchestra. The President nudged Mrs. Lincoln and pointed. There was Ambrose E. Burnside, the good-luck charm, waddling down the aisle to sit, too late to see the play, too early for the assassination...

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

Your July 26 article on crime by Jim Bishop was one of the most mindless, hate-filled editorials I have ever read. I cannot understand why a family newspaper printed it. Apparently the Herald sides with that great mass of "law-abiding" citizens who by their words and actions make a mockery of Christian morality and most of nature's laws of human behavior as well.

They would deny that life can be measured like flour, yet they think one murder can be vindicated with another. They'd like public executions to scare the criminals however, they forget that public executions didn't slow down crime in 17th century England and it is doubtful if it would now. And these people will say on Sunday that all men are brothers, all the same inside, and work on Monday to destroy the vicious, depraved criminal, an animal they have no love for.

They, the good people in this society, treat the bad like the scum of the earth, not remembering that those treated like scum will sooner or later feel that they are scum, and then they will surely act like it with the idea imbedded in their souls.

They forget that every society that tried to take away the threat posed by its undesirables through bloodshed, through "cruel and unusual" punishment, every society like that — revolutionary France, czarist Russia — fell.

They forget, don't know, don't remember, or try not to.

Mr. Bishop thought that he might sound callous. He didn't. He sounded barbarous.

Sincerely,
Allen Strous

Fair Campers Discouraged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Expositions Commission acted Thursday to discourage youngsters from camping outside the fairgrounds gates for weeks prior to the opening of the state fair.

Instead of honoring the actual first fairgoer as has been the practice in the past, fair officials will hold a drawing at the nearby Ohio Historical Center early on the morning of opening day, Aug. 26.

The youngster holding the winning ticket then will be driven to the fairgrounds to be honored by Gov. James A. Rhodes as the first visitor.

Fair Manager John Evans explained the reason for the change:

"With some young people camping at the gate for as long as three weeks in order to claim the honor, we believe there is a definite hazard."

He said officials feared that a youngster would be hurt or be the victim of a crime.

Man Laughs At Expense Of IRS

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — A federal judge agreed to let Marvin C. "Redd" White lecture community groups on the perils of income tax evasion in lieu of serving a one-year prison sentence. The Rotary Club audience loved White's speech. The judge didn't.

"Once you get to the point where the IRS sends you to prison," White's routine went, "you've won your case, because after that you won't have 'em on your tail any more."

White, who pleaded no contest to four counts of income tax evasion, was sentenced to one-year in jail by U.S. District Judge Charles Renfrew. The government said White failed to report all income from his gas station and illegally filed a joint return.

But Renfrew agreed to suspend the sentence if White would help spread the word that income tax evasion doesn't pay.

The tall Arkansan armed himself with a ready wit and lectured the Rotary Club in nearby Hayward:

"Two things in life are sure — and I don't see death getting worse every time Congress meets."

And: "I sent the IRS 25 cents because I heard I could pay my taxes by the quarter."

White, 51, had belonged to a Toastmasters' Club and said he knew getting a few laughs would warm up his audience. The judge, however, threatened to send White to jail if he didn't change his act.

"He read it all wrong," said White. "He accused me of trying to start a tax rebellion."

Renfrew ordered two IRS agents to monitor future White speeches, which were written by a lawyer and read by White in a properly subdued voice.

But meantime, former President Richard Nixon was pardoned by President Ford after the Watergate scandal, and White was prompted to write Ford asking for the same consideration. A courteous reply from the U.S. Justice Department told him Ford wasn't interested.

Then, a tax auditor discovered White wasn't legally married to the woman with whom he filed a joint return in 1974, and that, said U.S. Atty. John Youngquist, was "the last straw."

White says he and Martha West lived together for five years and he figured that by then they had attained common-law marital status. He said Martha had some interest income during 1974, and they wanted to be perfectly legal and pay whatever taxes were due on it. So they reported it — on a joint return.

Renfrew finally decided he had made a mistake in offering to suspend White's jail sentence, Youngquist said, so White left his service station in the care of his lady and turned himself in for a stay at the Terminal Island federal facility last month.

He says he doesn't plan to waste his year in prison and hopes to come out better prepared to resume his faceoff with the IRS.

"They got a nice law library there," he says of Terminal Island. "I feel I'm going to college with tuition paid."

ADC Payment Made To County

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office announced today the August distribution of $34,990,781 in Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) to 565,994 recipients in Ohio's 88 counties. Pickaway County received $69,501 for 1,092 recipients.

Ferguson said the amount does not include the weekly ADC auxiliary payments which will be made primarily to new recipients throughout the month.

The auxiliary payments in July totaling $1,988,869, coupled with the main July distribution of $35,122,451, boosted that month's total to $37,111,320.

Ferguson added that the ADC distribution does not reflect food stamp allowances to the recipients. The state welfare department distributes food stamps, and ADC payments to those recipients choosing to receive stamps are reduced accordingly.

Ferguson noted that the main August payment went to 3,339 less recipients than the one in July and decreased by $131,670 from the one last month.

ADC payments are made to families with one parent or one employed parent on the basis of family size and financial resources. The ADC program is funded primarily by federal and state governments.

Gasoline Taxes Distributed

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office distributed $4,664,000 in gasoline taxes in July to Ohio's counties and townships.

Ferguson said each of 1,320 townships received $1,200 for a township total of $1,584,000 and each of the 88 counties received $35,000 for a county total of $3,080,000.

The state's 967 cities and villages, which normally received gasoline taxes eight times a year, were excluded from the July distribution because recently revised motor vehicle registration figures (by the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles), used in computing the amounts due the municipalities, are in processing.

Ferguson said the distribution to the municipalities would be made early next month.

Gasoline excise tax receipts must be used for street and roadway purposes, Ferguson pointed out.

Distribution to the counties for their townships ranged from $4,800 to Cuyahoga to $32,400 to Ashtabula.

Coal-Burning Order To Have Little Effect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Federal Energy Administration's new orders requiring that only coal be burned in new power plants will probably not mean additional charges to Ohio fuel users, a state official said.

The order affects 30 plants planned in 17 states, including Ohio.

A spokesman for the state Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said the economic impact will hit those living in the Atlantic coastal states. Power plants there will have to convert from other fuels and the cost of rail lines, barges and other coal-handling facilities, he said, will have to be picked up by the consumer.

There are four Ohio plants affected by the ruling—the City of Painesville owns one plant, Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. owns another, and also jointly owns two plants with the Dayton Power & Light Co.

The FEA said all plants have coal-burning capability anyway, but the order would prevent use of natural gas or oil to fire the plants.

A year ago the FEA proposed the requirement for an additional 44 power plants, but an agency official said those are still under review.

The intent of the requirement is to save on dwindling supplies of oil and gas and to boost the use of coal, said Frank Zarb, EPA administrator.

In addition, the FEA said preliminary notices have been sent to 48 other power plants on the drawing boards in 22 states stating that orders will be issued requiring that they burn coal.

Exactly when the orders will go into effect is unknown. Edward Rodzinak, an attorney for Region 5 of the U.S. EPA in Cincinnati, said it will probably take at least three to four years for plants to make the switch. Rodzinak said the EPA must work closely with the FEA to make a definite determination.

The environmental impact of the latest order will not significantly affect Ohio, said Jack Wunderle of the state EPA air pollution division. All Ohio plants were originally coal burners, Wunderle said, so pollution should not rise in the state because of the FEA order.

Man Laughs At Expense Of IRS

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — A federal judge agreed to let Marvin C. "Redd" White lecture community groups on the perils of income tax evasion in lieu of serving a one-year prison sentence. The Rotary Club audience loved White's speech. The judge didn't.

"Once you get to the point where the IRS sends you to prison," White's routine went, "you've won your case, because after that you won't have 'em on your tail any more."

White, who pleaded no contest to four counts of income tax evasion, was sentenced to one year in jail by U.S. District Judge Charles Renfrew. The government said White failed to report all income from his gas station and illegally filed a joint return.

But Renfrew agreed to suspend the sentence if White would help spread

ADC Payment Made To County

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office announced today the August distribution of $34,990,781 in Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) to 565,994 recipients in Ohio's 88 counties. Pickaway County received $69,501 for 1,092 recipients.

Ferguson said the amount does not include the weekly ADC auxiliary payments which will be made primarily to new recipients throughout the month.

The auxiliary payments in July totaling $1,988,869, coupled with the main July distribution of $35,122,451, boosted that month's total to $37,111,320.

Ferguson added that the ADC distribution does not reflect food stamp allowances to the recipients. The state welfare department distributes food stamps, and ADC payments to those recipients choosing to receive stamps are reduced accordingly.

Ferguson noted that the main August payment went to 3,339 less recipients than the one in July and decreased by $131,670 from the one last month.

ADC payments are made to families with one parent or one employed parent on the basis of family size and financial resources. The ADC program is funded primarily by federal and state governments.

Gasoline Taxes Distributed

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office distributed $4,664,000 in gasoline taxes in July to Ohio's counties and townships.

Ferguson said each of 1,320 townships received $1,200 for a township total of $1,584,000 and each of the 88 counties received $35,000 for a county total of $3,080,000.

The state's 967 cities and villages, which normally received gasoline taxes eight times a year, were excluded from the July distribution because recently revised motor vehicle registration figures (by the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles), used in computing the amounts due the municipalities, are in processing.

Ferguson said the distribution to the municipalities would be made early next month.

Gasoline excise tax receipts must be used for street and roadway purposes, Ferguson pointed out.

Distribution to the counties for their townships ranged from $4,800 to Cuyahoga to $32,400 to Ashtabula.

Amanda-Clearcreek Registration Set

Registration of new high school students will be conducted at Amanda-Clearcreek High School Tuesday through Friday it was announced today by high school principal Richard Smith.

Students who have transferred to the district this summer should report to the principal's office between 9 and 11:30 a.m. They should have school records from their previous school and must be accompanied by either parent or guardian.

Historic Preservation Discussion Slated

The slide and panel discussion concerning historic preservation, with emphasis on the human values of architecture, to be held 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Chillicothe Branch, Ohio University auditorium, will be open to the public.

The program, conducted by architect and former Ohio University professor of architecture, Laszlo G. Koe-Krompecher, is sponsored by the Ohio Historical Society and the South Central Ohio Preservation Society. The program will be made possible by a grant from the Ohio Program in the Humanities.

the word that income tax evasion doesn't pay.

The tall Arkansan armed himself with a ready wit and lectured the Rotary Club in nearby Hayward:

"Two things in life are sure — and I don't see death getting worse every time Congress meets."

And: "I sent the IRS 25 cents because I heard I could pay my taxes by the quarter."

White, 51, had belonged to a Toastmasters' Club and said he knew getting a few laughs would warm up his audience. The judge, however, threatened to send White to jail if he didn't change his act.

"He read it all wrong," said White. "He accused me of trying to start a tax rebellion."

Renfrew ordered two IRS agents to monitor future White speeches, which were written by a lawyer and read by White in a properly subdued voice.

But meantime, former President Richard Nixon was pardoned by President Ford after the Watergate scandal, and White was prompted to write Ford asking for the same consideration. A courteous reply from the U.S. Justice Department told him Ford wasn't interested.

Then, a tax auditor discovered White wasn't legally married to the woman with whom he filed a joint return in 1974, and that, said U.S. Atty. John Youngquist, was "the last straw."

White says he and Martha West lived together for five years and he figured that by then they had attained common-law marital status. He said Martha had some interest income during 1974, and they wanted to be perfectly legal and pay whatever taxes were due on it. So they reported it — on a joint return.

Renfrew finally decided he had made a mistake in offering to suspend White's jail sentence, Youngquist said, so White left his service station in the care of his lady and turned himself in for a stay at the Terminal Island federal facility last month.

He says he doesn't plan to waste his year in prison and hopes to come out better prepared to resume his faceoff with the IRS.

"They got a nice law library there," he says of Terminal Island. "I feel I'm going to college with tuition paid."

The departmental chairmen of the nine districts and the state chairmen for the Ohio Federation Of Women's Clubs were in Columbus on Thursday to discuss projects and make plans for the 1976-78 club years.

Participating in the planning were Mrs. Sterling Poling, OFWC second vice president, Mrs. Melvin Ehrlich, Junior State Chairman of Home Life and Mrs. Thomas Purcell, Central Ohio River District Chairman for Home Life.

The Home Life Department will try to involve clubwomen in a pilot program, "The Home Energy Check; A search for Savings" which is being sponsored by Owens-Illinois. They will also work to strengthen the family as a basic unit, encourage clubwomen to gain a working knowledge of the metric system and work towards alleviating the problems caused by alcohol and drug abuse along with several other goals.

The arts department will work to involve everyone in the visual, performing and creative arts. The conservation department will urge clubwomen to serve as catalysts in their communities, working with others to live in harmony with nature. The goals of the education department will include efforts to urge maximum use of school facilities year around; to study and act on library needs of nursing homes, half-way houses,

KING OF BEERS FOR OVER 100 YEARS!

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Separate Bedrooms Until They're Wed

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your advice to those squares in Illinois who refused to allow their divorced 30-year-old son to sleep with girlfriend when they visited, but sent them off to a motel: Abby, your advice is Victorian.

We also have a divorced son, age 30. Because he is very much in love with a very sweet girl, whom we would be thrilled to have as our daughter-in-law, they sleep together whenever they visit us. Inasmuch as they live together in the city where they work, it would be rank hypocrisy for us to insist that they sleep apart in our home.

Abby, you and those Illinois parents are too concerned with appearances and what people will think! Why don't you either advance into the 20th century or retire?

SENSIBLE IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SENSIBLE: I'm "advanced" enough for most people, and have no intentions of retiring. I deny the charge that I am concerned with appearances and what people will think. If no one knew it but myself, I still would not approve of my unmarried (though adult) children sleeping with their lovers in my home.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 21-year-old college educated daughter who went to live with a young man about a year ago. At the time, he had no job, and I can only assume that my daughter, who has a job, has been supporting him.

I am 48 and a widow. I live in a home that's much too large for me, and I have a chance to sell it and relocate in Florida, a part of the country I love. It offers me a new life, and I would like to make the move, but would I be deserting my daughter?

Perhaps I should remain here in Connecticut in case she needs me. I told her if I moved to Florida and she wanted to join me, I would send her money.

I worry about her, Abby. Should I start a new life in Florida? Or stay near my daughter in case she needs me and is too proud to ask?

ALWAYS A MOTHER

DEAR ALWAYS: Move to Florida, and don't worry about your daughter. You will not be "deserting" her she made her choice when she moved in with the young man. Don't worry, if she needs you, she'll let you know.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a difference of opinion and need you to settle it.

If you send out R.S.V.P. invitations for a party and several people did not respond one way or the other, would you assume that they WERE coming or were NOT coming?

SPLIT OPINIONS

DEAR SPLIT: I wouldn't prepare to entertain those who didn't respond. And the only assumption I would make is that they have very poor manners. (P.S. Some invitations request "regrets only," which seems to simplify matters.)

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

PATIO SUPPER

Grilled hamburgers, corn on the cob, garden lettuce with chive vinegar dressing, and peach shortcake.

Chive Vinegar

Wash the chive spears and pat or shake them thoroughly dry. Cut them into 1-inch lengths and pack them loosely into a scalded wide-mouthed jar. Bruise the chives thoroughly with the handle of a wooden spoon or other wooden implement, freeing as much juice as possible. Bring to a boil enough white wine vinegar (or, if you can get it, Japanese rice vinegar) to fill the jar almost to the top. Pour in the vinegar, let it cool, then cover the jar closely. Let the chives and vinegar stand for at least a week, giving the jar a shake when you think of it. When the flavor is strong enough to please you, strain out of the chives and filter the vinegar into a clean bottle through funnel lined with filter paper. Cork or cap the vinegar, using an enamel-lined or glass lid, and store at room temperature. Helen Witty, who edited "The Garden-to-Table Cookbook" (McGraw-Hill), contributed this worthwhile recipe to it. She uses 1 part of the vinegar to 2 or 3 parts oil with salt and pepper to taste as a dressing for garden lettuce.

PICNIC FARE

Sliced ham, macaroni salad, relishes, rolls, fruit, orange cookies.

ORANGE COOKIES

1½ cups flour, fork-stir well to aerate before measuring
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
Grated rind of 1 small or medium orange (½ tablespoon)
1 large egg
3 tablespoons orange juice
½ cup finely chopped nuts
Stir together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, sugar and orange rind; beat in egg well. Stir in flour mixture in 3 additions, alternately with orange juice, until smooth each time; stir in nuts. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, 2 or 3 inches apart, onto well-greased cookie sheets. Bake in a pre-heated 400-degree oven until edges are lightly browned — 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen.

Pickaway Plains DAR Members Visit Home In Southern Ohio

Seven members of Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and a guest visited Southern Ohio this past week. They stopped at the Golden Lamb for lunch and then went to Waldschmidt House near Milford.

History related that Christian Waldschmidt at 20 years of age enlisted and fought for the country in 1775 as a private in the Pennsylvania Regiment from Berks County, Pa., during the Revolutionary War.

In 1780 he married Catherine Bollender. He traveled west and bought land between the Great Miami and Little Miami Rivers. Being a very energetic man he had the land cleared and erected block houses, forming a fortress against the Indians.

He built a paper mill, cooperage, distillery, woolen mill and dyeing house, blacksmith shop, and started a school. By 1804 he had built for himself a large home of fieldstone held together with white mortar. His daughter, Catherine, married Mathias Kugler and they lived in the house until 1849 when the Kugler fortune was lost. During the Civil War the house was used as the headquarters of General Joshua Bates. In 1941 Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kroge bought the house and immediate grounds and gave it to the DAR.

The house has been restored and was dedicated in 1952. It has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places. The house is open to the public on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. and by appointment through the week.

Mrs. Irma Liggett Faulwetter, president of Waldschmidt House board of directors, conducted the tour through the house. Local members attending were Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, Mrs. Ralph Woolever, Mrs. Christian Schwarz, Mrs. David Pontius, Mrs. Chester Noecker, Mrs. John W. Noecker and Miss Helen Mettler. Mrs. James Bartholomew was present as a guest.

When a recipe calls for "green" ginger, use fresh ginger root. Preserved ginger may be candied or packed in syrup.

Lentils make a delicious lunch or supper salad. Nowadays they do not need soaking and take only a short time to cook. Dress the drained lentils with oil and vinegar and garnish with hard-cooked egg; serve on lettuce. Add sliced tomato and cucumber if you like.

Citizen Band Club Meets At Tar Hollow

Circleville Busy Bee Modulators Club held its July meeting at Tar Hollow State Park.

Following the business meeting 265 members and guests enjoyed a carry-in picnic. Earlier in the month the club attended a jamboree at Nelsonville and was awarded a trophy for having the largest AM-CB members in attendance. Members planned to attend a jamboree in Hilliard.

For information and to join the citizen band club, interested persons may call Charles Hicks at 474-6945.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Separate Bedrooms Until They're Wed

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your advice to those squares in Illinois who refused to allow their divorced 30-year-old son to sleep with girlfriend when they visited, but sent them off to a motel: Abby, your advice is Victorian.

We also have a divorced son, age 30. Because he is very much in love with a very sweet girl, whom we would be thrilled to have as our daughter-in-law, they sleep together whenever they visit us. Inasmuch as they live together in the city where they work, it would be rank hypocrisy for us to insist that they sleep apart in our home.

Abby, you and those Illinois parents are too concerned with appearances and what people will think! Why don't you either advance into the 20th century or retire?

SENSIBLE IN SAN DIEGO
DEAR SENSIBLE: I'm "advanced" enough for most people, and have no intentions of retiring. I deny the charge that I am concerned with appearances and what people will think. If no one knew it but myself, I still would not approve of my unmarried (though adult) children sleeping with their lovers in my home.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 21-year-old college educated daughter who went to live with a young man about a year ago. At the time, he had no job, and I can only assume that my daughter, who has a job, has been supporting him.

I am 48 and a widow. I live in a home that's much too large for me, and I have a chance to sell it and relocate in Florida, a part of the country I love. It offers me a new life, and I would like to make the move, but would I be deserting my daughter?

Perhaps I should remain here in Connecticut in case she needs me. I told her if I moved to Florida and she wanted to join me, I would send her money.

I worry about her, Abby. Should I start a new life in Florida? Or stay near my daughter in case she needs me and is too proud to ask?

ALWAYS A MOTHER
DEAR ALWAYS: Move to Florida, and don't worry about your daughter. You will not be "deserting" her she made her choice when she moved in with the young man. Don't worry, if she needs you, she'll let you know.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a difference of opinion and need you to settle it.

If you send out R.S.V.P. invitations for a party and several people did not respond one way or the other, would you assume that they WERE coming or were NOT coming?

SPLIT OPINIONS
DEAR SPLIT: I wouldn't prepare to entertain those who didn't respond. And the only assumption I would make is that they have very poor manners. (P.S. Some invitations request "regrets only," which seems to simplify matters.)

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

PATIO SUPPER

Grilled hamburgers, corn on the cob, garden lettuce with chive vinegar dressing, and peach shortcake.

Chive Vinegar

Wash the chive spears and pat or shake them thoroughly dry. Cut them into 1-inch lengths and pack them loosely into a scalded wide-mouthed jar. Bruise the chives thoroughly with the handle of a wooden spoon or other wooden implement, freeing as much juice as possible. Bring to a boil enough white wine vinegar (or, if you can get it, Japanese rice vinegar) to fill the jar almost to the top. Pour in the vinegar, let it cool, then cover the jar closely. Let the chives and vinegar stand for at least a week, giving the jar a shake when you think of it. When the flavor is strong enough to please you, strain out of the chives and filter the vinegar into a clean bottle through funnel lined with filter paper. Cork or cap the vinegar, using an enamel-lined or glass lid, and store at room temperature. Helen Witty, who edited "The Garden-to-Table Cookbook" (McGraw-Hill), contributed this worthwhile recipe to it. She uses 1 part of the vinegar to 2 or 3 parts oil with salt and pepper to taste as a dressing for garden lettuce.

PICNIC FARE

Sliced ham, macaroni salad, relishes, rolls, fruit, orange cookies.

ORANGE COOKIES

1½ cups flour, fork-stir well to aerate before measuring
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
Grated rind of 1 small or medium orange (½ tablespoon)
1 large egg
3 tablespoons orange juice
½ cup finely chopped nuts

Stir together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, sugar and orange rind; beat in egg well. Stir in flour mixture in 3 additions, alternately with orange juice, until smooth each time; stir in nuts. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, 2 or 3 inches apart, onto well-greased cookie sheets. Bake in a pre-heated 400-degree oven until edges are lightly browned — 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen.

MISS SUSIE CARPER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carper, Route 1, Kingston, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Susie, to Doug Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Baldwin, Route 2, Laurelville.

Miss Carper is a senior at Zane Trace High School. Her fiancé, a 1974 graduate of Logan Elm High School, is presently employed at Amanda Bent Bolt Co.

No definite date has been made for the wedding.

Pickaway Plains DAR Members Visit Home In Southern Ohio

Seven members of Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and a guest visited Southern Ohio this past week. They stopped at the Golden Lamb for lunch and then went to Waldschmidt House near Milford.

History related that Christian Waldschmidt at 20 years of age enlisted and fought for the country in 1775 as a private in the Pennsylvania Regiment from Berks County, Pa., during the Revolutionary War.

In 1780 he married Catherine Bollender. He traveled west and bought land between the Great Miami and Little Miami Rivers. Being a very energetic man he had the land cleared and erected block houses, forming a fortress against the Indians.

He built a paper mill, cooperage, distillery, woolen mill and dying house, blacksmith shop, and started a school. By 1804 he had built for himself a large home of fieldstone held together with white mortar. His daughter, Catherine, married Mathias Kugler and they lived in the house until 1849 when the Kugler fortune was lost. During the Civil War the house was used as the headquarters of General Joshua Bates. In 1941 Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kroge bought the house and immediate grounds and gave it to the DAR.

The house has been restored and was dedicated in 1952. It has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places. The house is open to the public on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. and by appointment through the week.

Mrs. Irma Liggett Faulwetter, president of Waldschmidt House board of directors, conducted the tour through the house. Local members attending were Mrs. Henry Bartholomew, Mrs. Ralph Woolever, Mrs. Christian Schwarz, Mrs. David Pontius, Mrs. Chester Noecker, Mrs. John W. Noecker and Miss Helen Mettler. Mrs. James Bartholomew was present as a guest.

When a recipe calls for "green" ginger, use fresh ginger root. Preserved ginger may be candied or packed in syrup.

Lentils make a delicious lunch or supper salad. Nowadays they do not need soaking and take only a short time to cook. Dress the drained lentils with oil and vinegar and garnish with hard-cooked egg; serve on lettuce. Add sliced tomato and cucumber if you like.

Ralph Nader: King Of Nation's Ombudsmen?

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
For more than a decade, Ralph Nader has been telling America what's wrong with it.

He has produced almost 50 major studies of the U.S. market place and the government agencies that regulate it. His research groups have followed up with petitions, lawsuits and lobbying.

Nader's most sweeping studies have also been the ones most vulnerable to attack. There have been factual errors, arguments over conclusions unsupported by the facts, an uneven level of accuracy.

The follow-up efforts have a better record of success, with numerous court victories and government actions to their credit.

Nader stands by all the reports, most of which have been produced by researchers and lawyers at his Center for Study of Responsive Law. "We have the highest accuracy rate in modern history," he says it is in his own interest to be right. "If you really bloop one ... you start losing your credibility."

One early Nader report, on the Federal Trade Commission, was echoed later by an American Bar Association study. Proposals in several of his antitrust studies have become law or are pending in Congress.

Nader's first major battle was with General Motors over the safety of the Corvair. Nader gained public attention with his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed," with congressional testimony on autos and with the disclosure that GM hired a private detective to investigate his personal life.

The battle ended in a draw. The automobile is no longer on the market and Nader said cars as a whole are safer today. But neither side ever backed down.

In 1972, six years after Nader started his campaign, the Department of Transportation concluded that the car was no more likely to turn over than other cars of the same year and weight and General Motors said its position had been confirmed.

At the same time, a department panel recommended that owners of early model Corvairs be told of need for special handling. The department did not include the panel recommendation in its report, but, government officials later announced that owners of the car would indeed get warning letters.

About half a dozen of Nader's reports have stirred particularly serious criticism: his profiles of individual members of Congress, a report on DuPont and Delaware, a study of land use in California, a finding that the Volkswagen was "the most dangerous car" on the highway; a look at consumer complaints and how they are handled.

The Associated Press made a detailed study of several Nader reports in 1972, including the ones on DuPont and California. DuPont cited 43 errors; the AP found slightly more than one-third constituted clear-cut mistakes while the rest were open to debate.

Among the errors were five mistakes resulting from the researchers' use of published figures that turned out to be incorrect. The report also erroneously said that DuPont supported a coastal land-use bill and that DuPont selected a minority business development plan which had, in fact, been chosen by the independent Black Alliance.

The AP also found substantive mistakes in the California land use report including an erroneous statement that Rep. John E. Moss, R-Calif., hosted a meeting of lobbyists trying to block a state land use bill. Nader apologized in a letter to Moss.

Some of Nader's own staff members or former staff members concede that the congressional profiles were poorly done, partly because the task was enormous, the time of the study was short and part-time researchers were responsible for much of the work.

"Some of the reports were not of the highest quality," said John Esposito, who formerly worked at the Center for Study of Responsive Law. He cited the 1972 Congress Project as one example and said it was "unmanageable within the given length of time."

Mark Green, on leave as director of School Case Appeal Eyed

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Darke County Prosecutor Lee E. Fry says he is considering an appeal of the Ohio Supreme Court's landmark decision striking down the state's educational standards as they apply to private schools.

Fry said he intended to "study the decision very carefully" before he decides whether to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I can't speak for the entire state," Fry said, "but it appears that this might cause a drop" in the state's educational standards.

Fry had prosecuted the case against a Greenville fundamentalist minister and founder of a church-related school, the Rev. Levi Whisner.

A Darke County jury convicted the Rev. Mr. Whisner and a group of followers of sending their children to the school which did not meet the state standards.

The Supreme Court ruled the state's educational standards cannot infringe on the right to freedom of religion.

Nader's Corporate Accountability Research Group, worked on the Congress Project, which resulted in a book, "Who Runs Congress?" as well as the profiles. He described it as "an enormous bite ... It was a great success and a great failure because it took on so much."

Another source, who declined to be identified, said the individual profiles contained many errors. He said Nader always promised to correct the errors in later printings. Since the makeup of Congress changed and many of those profiled no longer held public office, the corrections — and subsequent printings — became moot.

Nader says he issues his reports in draft form. He gives them to the news media for release five days later. At the same time, he gives the reports to those criticized. That lead time, he says, allows targets of the reports to respond and allows the news media to check potential errors. Mistakes, he says, are corrected in later versions.

Lowell Dodge, former director of the Center for Auto Safety, with which Nader worked closely, said, "Whenever there was an error, Ralph would go out of his way to correct it. He would do it quietly, without publicity, but he would do it."

Dodge himself was at odds with Nader over a report involving the safety of the Volkswagen. Nader critic David Sanford quotes Dodge as saying that Nader insisted on distorting the conclusion of the 1971 report to say that the Volkswagen was "the most hazardous car in use in significant numbers in the U.S. today." Dodge says the word "most" was inaccurate because information about the safety of comparable cars was unavailable. Road & Track Magazine also criticized the report and recommended that it be recalled.

In a recent interview, Dodge said of the Sanford account: "There are elements of truth and elements of distortion ... Ralph wanted a stronger conclusion ... We all agreed that the Volkswagen was a dangerous car. The argument was over the degree of danger."

Nader was asked whether he ignored the facts in writing the conclusion. "That was my report. I put my name on it," said Nader, adding that he, Dodge and seven other persons worked on the report.

"Did you ignore the facts?" "Everyone agreed with me," Nader said. "Dodge never told me he was unhappy." Nader also said Dodge also did not disclose that he was in touch with Volkswagen officials while working on the report.

"Did you ignore the facts?" "We had to rewrite a lot of his (Dodge's) stuff because it wasn't very good."

One of the center's most recent reports, on customer satisfaction, was a joint project of Nader and Call for Action, Inc., a 40-city network of volunteers, supported by broadcasters, who try to help consumers resolve their problems.

Ellen Sulzberger Straus, founder of Call for Action, said she and Arthur Best, a center lawyer, argued over the report. She said Call for Action insisted that an "executive summary" be included with the report. "Without the executive summary," she said, "it is somewhat distorted."

One problem centered over the distinction between people who had a specific complaint with a product and people who had no actual complaint, but felt the item could have been better. The summary stresses the distinction; the report puts both groups together.

Nader said the arguments were not serious. "I think they (Call for Action) were more concerned about industry reaction (than we were)."

Best, who is leaving the center to become a law school teacher, also said the disagreements were "extremely minor." He said the executive summary was "essentially a recap."

It is difficult to draw a cause-and-effect chart on Nader's campaigns. Most of his study reports spotlighted problems rather than suggesting solutions.

Green, asked to cite concrete accomplishments as a result of the Nader reports, said: "It's a long list. One problem though. A report is issued. In the next four years, an enormous percentage of it becomes policy, either by legislation or regulation. It's slightly presumptuous to claim a causal connections."

Nader said there have been changes. "Cars are definitely safer, across the board. Most of the drug companies are more careful in their testing. Toys on the whole are safer."

In recent years, Nader has produced fewer reports, concentrating on research groups to provide follow-up action.

The record of these groups shows a fair degree of success:

—Statistics from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration show that through March 1976, 41.5 million domestic and 7.8 million imported cars have been recalled. Auto expert Dodge says about half the recalls since 1966 were actions advocated by his group. "We got most of the biggies," he said.

Dodge also said that the rate of highway deaths has dropped from 5.3 per 100 million vehicle miles to 3.4 per 100 million vehicle miles. Part of the decrease is due to the lower speed limit, he said. The rest is due to safer automobiles.

One Nader campaign that has not been successful has been his drive for installation of air bags in automobiles. The Transportation Department is about to hold another hearing on the question.

—Many of the Nader victories come from his Health Research Group, headed by Dr. Sidney Wolfe, who left his job at the National Institutes of Health late in 1971 to join Nader.

One of the group's first targets was Red Dye No. 2, which has been linked to cancer in rats and until recently was one of the most widely used food colorings. The FDA banned the dye five months ago and the ban was recently upheld by a federal appeals court.

It took less time to get action on another issue: hexachlorophene. Wolfe and Nader urged in November 1971, that products containing hexachlorophene be removed from the open market. The FDA announced a ban on nonprescription sales of the drug in September 1972.

In June 1975 the Health Research Group urged the FDA to revoke permission for use of the food additive, trichloroethylene, TCE, used in decaffeinated coffee. The agency recently announced it would ban the chemical, known to cause liver cancer in rats.

The research group also was among the first to recognize the dangers of vinyl chloride, a plastics chemical that has been linked to cancer, birth defects and genetic injuries. The government banned its use as a propellant in aerosols, has proposed standards reducing emissions from manufacturing plants and is in the final stages of banning vinyl chloride in food packaging.

"Most of the issues we've gotten into, the government has moved," Wolfe said. "We try not to give up, even when there is no measurable success."

Wolfe said he and his staff select projects where there is strong evidence of a problem and where there is a chance of having some impact. "We try to stay away from issues where there isn't some clear cut danger," he said.

—Nader's Litigation Group has met with similar success. As a result of lawsuits initiated by the group, headed by Alan Morrison, the Supreme Court ruled that fee schedules used by Virginia lawyers violated antitrust laws; overturned a Virginia ban on prescription drug advertising; and upheld the right of a consumer to sue in the federal courts when he has been bumped from an airline flight because of overbooking. (The later case involved Nader himself; he won a $25,000 judgment from Allegheny Airlines.)

"I think we have a very good reputation for doing quality legal work," said Morrison. He said the establishment of the Litigation Group taught government and business officials that the Nader people "don't just file reports and write petitions. We'll go to court to get them enforced."

Catalyst Study Made By Battelle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A two-year study to develop better catalysts for producing clean low-sulfur liquid fuel from coal for utility boilers is underway at Battelle-Columbus laboratories.

The $1.2 million research project is sponsored by the federal Energy Research and Development Administration and is aimed at improving catalysts that permit faster conversion of coal at lower pressures and with longer catalyst life.

Study manager David A. Berry said a synthol research reactor will be built at Battelle's West Jefferson site near here. Berry said it will be the first such plant built on private premises and is expected to be in operation next summer.

Harshaw Chemical Co. of Cleveland, manufacturer of the presently used catalyst, will participate in the project as a sub-contractor to Battelle-Columbus.

One Nader campaign that has not been successful has been his drive for installation of air bags in automobiles. The Transportation Department is about to hold another hearing on the question.

—Many of the Nader victories come from his Health Research Group, headed by Dr. Sidney Wolfe, who left his job at the National Institutes of Health late in 1971 to join Nader.

One of the group's first targets was Red Dye No. 2, which has been linked to cancer in rats and until recently was one of the most widely used food colorings. The FDA banned the dye five months ago and the ban was recently upheld by a federal appeals court.

It took less time to get action on another issue: hexachlorophene. Wolfe and Nader urged in November 1971, that products containing hexachlorophene be removed from the open market. The FDA announced a ban on nonprescription sales of the drug in September 1972.

In June 1975 the Health Research Group urged the FDA to revoke permission for use of the food additive, trichloroethylene, TCE, used in decaffeinated coffee. The agency recently announced it would ban the chemical, known to cause liver cancer in rats.

The research group also was among the first to recognize the dangers of vinyl chloride, a plastics chemical that has been linked to cancer, birth defects and genetic injuries. The government banned its use as a propellant in aerosols, has proposed standards reducing emissions from manufacturing plants and is in the final stages of banning vinyl chloride in food packaging.

"Most of the issues we've gotten into, the government has moved," Wolfe said. "We try not to give up, even when there is no measurable success."

Wolfe said he and his staff select projects where there is strong evidence of a problem and where there is a chance of having some impact. "We try to stay away from issues where there isn't some clear cut danger," he said.

—Nader's Litigation Group has met with similar success. As a result of lawsuits initiated by the group, headed by Alan Morrison, the Supreme Court ruled that fee schedules used by Virginia lawyers violated antitrust laws; overturned a Virginia ban on prescription drug advertising; and upheld the right of a consumer to sue in the federal courts when he has been bumped from an airline flight because of overbooking. (The later case involved Nader himself; he won a $25,000 judgment from Allegheny Airlines.)

"I think we have a very good reputation for doing quality legal work," said Morrison. He said the establishment of the Litigation Group taught government and business officials that the Nader people "don't just file reports and write petitions. We'll go to court to get them enforced."

Catalyst Study Made By Battelle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A two-year study to develop better catalysts for producing clean low-sulfur liquid fuel from coal for utility boilers is underway at Battelle-Columbus laboratories.

The $1.2 million research project is sponsored by the federal Energy Research and Development Administration and is aimed at improving catalysts that permit faster conversion of coal at lower pressures and with longer catalyst life.

Study manager David A. Berry said a synthol research reactor will be built at Battelle's West Jefferson site near here. Berry said it will be the first such plant built on private premises and is expected to be in operation next summer.

Harshaw Chemical Co. of Cleveland, manufacturer of the presently used catalyst, will participate in the project as a sub-contractor to Battelle-Columbus.

School Case Appeal Eyed

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Darke County Prosecutor Lee E. Fry says he is considering an appeal of the Ohio Supreme Court's landmark decision striking down the state's educational standards as they apply to private schools.

Fry said he intended to "study the decision very carefully" before he decides whether to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I can't speak for the entire state," Fry said, "but it appears that this might cause a drop" in the state's educational standards.

Fry had prosecuted the case against a Greenville fundamentalist minister and founder of a church-related school, the Rev. Levi Whisner.

A Darke County jury convicted the Rev. Mr. Whisner and a group of followers of sending their children to the school which did not meet the state standards.

The Supreme Court ruled the state's educational standards cannot infringe on the right to freedom of religion.

Narcotics Traffic Worrying Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet officials are expressing worry over new signs of international narcotics traffic through Moscow, mostly involving young foreigners flying through the Soviet capital from Asia to Western Europe.

At least 16 citizens of the United States, Australia, Great Britain, West Germany, The Netherlands and other countries have been seized by Moscow airport police in the past year for allegedly smuggling drugs including hashish and heroin.

Two of the foreigners, possibly more, are now serving terms in Soviet prison camps.

The last such string of arrests was in 1967-68, when 15 young men from Western Europe, Canada and the United States were arrested for allegedly transporting hashish through the Soviet Union. After those arrests and sentences of up to five years' confinement, the traffic seemed to stop.

"I think it would be fair to say the Soviets are quite concerned about things at present, and they even asked me if I had any idea what could be done to stop the traffic," said a Western diplomat who talked with the Soviet foreign ministry after one of his country's citizens was arrested.

Nedelya, a weekly magazine published by the government newspaper Izvestia, reported this month that Soviet customs declaration forms were revised July 1 to include a special section on narcotics.

The weekly added: "A series of failures (in getting drugs into other countries) has forced the chiefs of the narcotics business to study new routes."

"Knowing that in the Soviet Union the social basis for narcotics addiction (within the local population) does not exist, they, obviously, have decided to try to grope around for a loophole by transporting narcotics through Moscow."

Specialists here point out that Moscow may have been a narcotics route for some time and the arrests in 1967-68 and now may simply reflect better customs checking or informants' tips.

"The cheapest way to get from Asia to Europe is via Moscow by Aeroflot (the Soviet airline)," one diplomat said. Asian air-ticket dealers have been known to work out cheap fares on Aeroflot planes that would be tougher to arrange on Western airlines that belong to the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

"For the small smugglers," the diplomat said, "It's an attraction to go via Moscow."

Another Westerner added that smugglers may believe they are less likely to be checked at the Western European end of their journey if they arrived on an Aeroflot plane. Usually, he said, "customs officers believe people just don't come from Moscow carrying drugs."

Some drug traffickers, apparently, believe that transit passengers through Moscow — those who stop only to change planes here or who stay at Aeroflot's hotel awaiting a flight the next day — will not be searched. In fact, several of the arrests this year have been of transit passengers.

Treatment of drug offenders has varied. At least one Westerner arrested at Moscow Airport was severely warned and then let go. But last year, four Dutchmen and two West Germans on a Pakistan-London journey were sentenced to terms of 10 and six years for allegedly smuggling hashish.

The Dutchmen and West Germans have been released on a government pardon since then, however.

An Australian who was allegedly carrying marijuana was sentenced to six years' confinement in May. Three Americans charged with heroin smuggling and two Britons held on

U.S. Farm Export Market Expands

WASHINGTON (AP) — A credit program to help foreign countries buy U.S. farm products has provided an export market worth $4.4 billion since it began 20 years ago, the Agriculture Department said today.

In the year ending June 30, some $621 million in commodities was financed by the program, more than double the 1974-75 value of $249 million, the department's Office of the General Sales Manager said in a quarterly report. The peak year was $1.1 billion in 1972-73.

The department's Commodity Credit Corporation finances loans to specified countries for the purchase of certain commodities. The program is popularly referred to as "CCC export credit."

The loans are for a maximum of three years and must be repaid in regular installments, including interest at commercial bank rates. The program does not involve donations or long-term easy credit as provided by other programs such as Food for Peace.

Some 25 countries participated in the credit program last fiscal year, compared with 17 in 1974-75. Officials said the 10 top users were South Korea, Poland, Pakistan, Indonesia, Philippines, Peru, the United Kingdom, Morocco, the Dominican Republic and Greece.

"The program is the strongest and most effective mechanism of the U.S. government to move agricultural commodities into foreign markets on commercial terms and to serve as the prime level to permit many nations to make the transition to cash purchases," the report said.

Interest reflects prevailing bank rates. "In its 20-year life there have been some arrearages but no bad-debt losses," the report said.

"Indications are that, in the absence of CCC credit availability, our competitors could well have garnered the U.S. export market share in some nations..." the report said.

Criminal Cost Subsidy Paid To County

Criminal cost subsidy payments amounting to $204,744.30 were distributed to 70 county clerks of court during July, State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson reported today. Pickaway County received $570.35.

The payments ranged from $66.95 to the Huron County clerk of court of $37,718.61 to the Hamilton County clerk of court, Ferguson said.

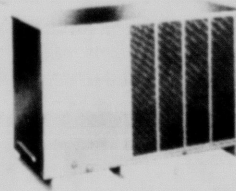

The state paid for the successful prosecution and imprisonment of indigent persons convicted of felonies. For fiscal 1977, $2,226,000 was appropriated by the legislature to the Auditor's office for this purpose.

However, due to rising caseloads, the Auditor, with State Controlling Board approval, used nearly $735,000 of the appropriation to help meet the fiscal 1976 obligation.

Criminal cost payments totaled $2,849,253.38 in fiscal 1976, although the appropriation for that year was $2,115,000.

Kniesel Liable For Mess

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Nearly two years after daredevil Evel Kniesel's aborted rocket leap across the Snake River Canyon, a judge has ruled Kniesel is liable for the mess left by his fans.

Fifth District Court Judge Theron Ward heard arguments Friday and ruled in favor of Twin Falls County. He said a bond taken out by Kniesel guarantees the county reimbursement of the clean-up expenses.

No amount was set in the judgment, but prosecutor Frank Dykas said Kniesel and two firms, Snake River Canyon Enterprises and United Pacific Insurance Co., would be sent a bill. Dykas said the county spent $4,956.50 and the city of Twin Falls $300 cleaning up roads and parks.

Another county claim for unpaid hospital bills was still being considered by the court.

Kniesel, from Butte, Mont., failed to make it over the canyon Spet. 8, 1974, when a parachute on his rocket deployed too quickly. He was pulled out of the canyon with only minor injuries.

The first meeting of the Ohio Legislature in Columbus was held in December, 1816.

An Australian who was allegedly carrying marijuana was sentenced to six years' confinement in May. Three Americans charged with heroin smuggling and two Britons held on drug charges are now awaiting trial. It is not clear from cases decided so far whether the Soviets are making a distinction between small quantities of drugs intended for personal use and large commercial quantities. One diplomat also expressed worry that Soviet courts see little distinction between such hard drugs as heroin and drugs like marijuana and hashish.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

Congress has failed badly on its obligation to American consumers by permitting deregulation of prices on middle distillate fuel oil, including home heating oil, diesel fuels, and kerosene.

Without evaluating or debating the highly suspect fuel oil demand estimates presented by the Federal Energy Administration as justification for removing price controls on fuel oil, Congress recently allowed restraints to expire.

The supply and demand setting is right for an increase in heating oil prices, now that controls have lapsed. Middle distillate stocks are at a low level despite the unseasonably warm temperatures which generally prevailed during the past winter.

The picture is further clouded by the anticipated shortage in natural gas supplies, as forecast by the Federal Power Commission. Since middle distillates also serve as a substitute for natural gas, demands on this fuel oil would be even greater during a natural gas shortage.

If demand is forecasted to exceed potential supplies, increases in the domestic price for fuel oil will rise to the prevailing world price, now set by the Organization of Petroleum

Exporting Countries (OPEC).

The most recent FEA figures show that the uncontrolled world price is 8 cents higher than the controlled domestic price. Therefore, if demand exceeds supply — and it almost certainly will — the price of essential home heating oils and diesel fuels could rise by as much as 20 per cent. An 8-cent increase could raise the average heating bill by $120. Even a 1-cent hike would raise the bill by $16.

Homeowners, truckers, farmers, and small businessmen could well be paying a much higher price next winter because Congress let FEA remove the lid. As always, those hit hardest by this jump in home heating costs will be the elderly, the poor, and those who are on fixed incomes.

With little regard for the 17 million homes that use heating oil, a majority in Congress became willing partners in the guessing game staged by the Federal Energy Administration. Between June 15 and June 25, the agency transmitted three different sets of demand projection figures to Congress.

Although obviously certain of nothing, FEA officials appeared ready to promise anything to get Congressional approval for decontrol of heating oil prices. They were successful despite estimates that a 1-cent increase in the price of distillates would involve a $490 million addition to consumer prices and a 1 per cent increase in unemployment, or more than 130,000 fewer jobs.

An increase to world market level prices would transfer about $4 billion a year from consumers' pocketbooks to the oil industry. Most of this price increase would be trapped at the marketing and refining levels. Since it would not flow to producers to obtain greater supplies, the increase would be almost totally inflationary.

The major oil refiners, which produce over 80 per cent of the total petroleum products in this country, are now free to charge anything they want. They will not have to worry about controls on the price of crude oil, because consumers don't buy crude oil. They buy middle distillates, gasoline, and other products. Thus, the major oil refineries can simply drain off their profits at the point of product prices.

I voted for House consideration of this matter, and in effect, against lifting controls on middle distillate prices. Consumers have for too long been victimized by this nation's major oil companies and their protectors in certain federal agencies.

Despite their frequently erroneous and misleading figures on reserves and projections, the oil producers are gradually getting the decontrol they seek. Middle distillates are not the last targets. Another attempt to decontrol gasoline prices will be next.

While all else in the American energy picture seems to change from time to time, the real victim remains the same — the American consumer.

Blanchester Danger Over

BLANCHESTER, Ohio (AP) — Some 200 to 300 residents who left their homes early Sunday when 10 cars of a B&O freight train derailed were back in their beds late Sunday as two potentially dangerous tank cars had been righted.

Those two cars contained ethylene oxide, described by Chessie System spokesman Tom Johnson as toxic and flammable. There was no leakage, he said.

Police had warned persons near the derailment of the potential danger and urged them to spend the day elsewhere, but there was no formal evacuation, Johnson said. Authorities said about 200-300 persons left their homes.

The derailment occurred as the 83-car freight was passing through Blanchester from Cincinnati on its way to Chillicothe, Johnson said.

The other eight cars which left the tracks contained steel, aluminum and miscellaneous nondangerous products, Johnson said.

Johnson reported that the cars were back on the tracks about 9:30 p.m. Sunday night and residents started returning home immediately. Damage estimates from the derailment were listed at about $50,000. There were no injuries reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A provision for appropriation of $255 million for an additional government-owned uranium enrichment plant near Portsmouth, Ohio, survived House action Friday on the Nuclear Fuel Assurance Act.

Representatives otherwise gutted from the bill all provisions to help private industry to enter the vital nuclear fuel process which is now a government monopoly.

Passed by a narrow two-vote margin was an amendment wiping out proposed federal government authorization to share with private industry its processes for uranium enrichment and to guarantee up to $8 billion in loans to finance private uranium enrichment plants.

However, another vote was planned for next Wednesday and both supporters and opponents of the original bill are expected to try to the meantime to turn out more of the 197 congressmen who did not vote on the issue this time.

One Of Most Beautiful Areas In Ohio Is Logan-Hocking Area

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio attractions prepared by Columbus Automobile Club for Circleville Herald.

A drive through the countryside is usually relaxing, and one of the most beautiful places in Ohio to visit to commune with nature is the lovely scenic hill country in the Logan-Athens area. Imagination and adventure are certain to help you forget the hectic side of life for awhile as you investigate the cliffs and caves of this unique area.

Southern Ohio is very proud of Hocking Hills State Park (1), located in Hocking State Forest, reached by U.S. 33 and S.R. 664. The picturesque scenery is noted for the widest variety of trees and plants found on any Ohio landscape. The forest shelters nearly every species of game native to the Midwest.

Cantwell Cliffs (3) features impressive cliffs and a deeply cut, rugged glen. This 386 acre park is located on S.R. 374, southwest of Rockbridge (on S.R. 33). It is ideal for hiking and picnicking.

Rock House (7) is also southwest of Logan on S.R. 374 and features a perpendicular cliff.

Conkles Hollow (5) is a very rugged area containing a deep gorge which ends in a small cave and waterfall. Hiking trails and picnicking facilities are a part of this 57 acre area which is located north of South Bloomingville on S.R. 374.

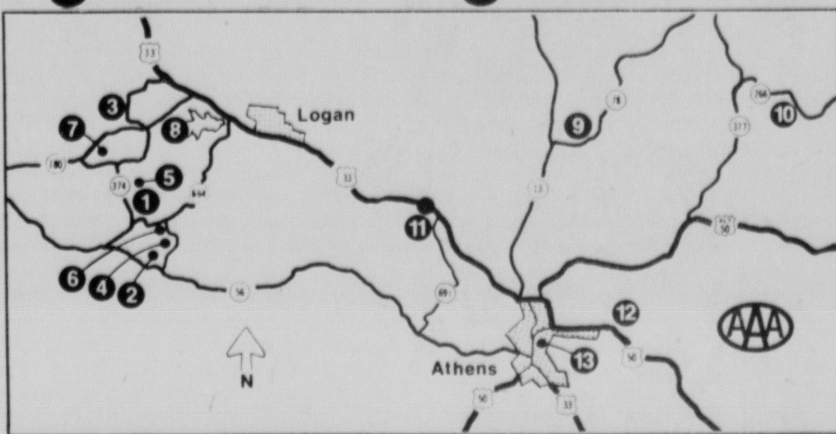

Without a doubt the most heavily traveled spot in Ohio hill country is Old Man's Cave (6). This popular park includes winding ravines, picturesque waterfalls, two caves, very interesting rock formations and heavily wooded areas. This 417 acre park is located on S.R. 374 southwest of Logan.

Cedar Falls (4) is comprised of 60 acres two miles north of Ash Cave on S.R. 374. A path leads from Old Man's Cave up the gorge of Queer Creek. A three mile trail connects this park with Old Man's Cave. Again, hiking and picnicking are an interesting possibility at this park.

Ash Cave (2) is a semi-circular recess in a great rock 700 feet long and 30 feet high. A stream falls from the edge of the rock into a pool below. Picnicking and hiking are pleasant here also, in this 80 acre park east of South Bloomingville on S.R. 56.

The annual "Parade of the Hills Festival" is held in Nelsonville, from August 15 to 21 this year. The many activities which include parades, contests, various displays, a look at the Hocking Valley Scenic Railway, one of the world's largest lighted crosses, the Old Fiddlers State Championship contest, fee entertainment, and the crowning of the Queen of the festival, followed by a huge coronation parade. The Hocking Technical College in this area is the home of the annual Paul Bunyan Show, which this year will be held October 8-10.

The Hocking Valley Scenic Railway (11) is located at the junction of U.S. 33 and S.R. 691, 1 mile south of Nelsonville. A 1916 vintage steam locomotive, with two 1900 steel coaches hauls passengers over a section of track between Nelsonville and New Straitsville, offering 5 rides per day on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

A popular facility of the Ohio Division of Parks and Recreation is Burr Oak Lodge (9), located 4 miles northeast of Glouster off S.R. 78. This year-round hotel lies luxuriously in a quiet rural Ohio region. It features 62 guest rooms, 30 two-bedroom cottages, beach, swimming pool, boating, fishing and excellent dining, meeting and convention facilities. It is a popular honeymoon spot.

If your travel takes you in the vicinity (1 mile southeast of Stockport on S.R. 266), you might wish to see the Big Bottom State Monument (10) which has been erected to mark the site of a massacre of pioneer settlers by Indians on January 2, 1791.

Strouds Run State Park (12) on U.S. 50 five miles east of Athens offers picnicking, swimming and fishing facilities. Boat launching, hiking and riding trails are also available.

Ohio University (13) the oldest institution of higher education in the old Northwest Territory was established in 1804. Its main campus is located in downtown Athens. It now has branches at Chillicothe, Lancaster, Portsmouth and Zanesville.

Lake Logan (8) near Logan, on U.S. 33, has facilities for picnicking, swimming, fishing and boating.

From Circleville go southeast on S.R. 56 to the tour area.

Planning to ship some books to his son at college, Ben stopped at a supermarket for an empty carton. But as he walked into the storage room at the rear, he tripped on a crack in the floor and went sprawling.

In short order Ben sued the market for damages, charging negligence. But the court rejected his claim because he had ventured into a part of the premises where he did not belong.

Most courts apply this out-of-bounds rule to the shopper. In public areas of a store he is considered an "invitee," with a legal right to have the premises kept in good condition for his benefit.

But beyond this safety zone, he is a mere "licensee" — entitled, as Ben learned by his sorrow, to only a minimum of protection.

If the shopper does stay within bounds, he retains his preferred status as an invitee even if not in the process of actually buying something. Thus:

Another shopper skidded on a grease spot on her way to the pay telephone in a grocery store. The store denied liability, saying she did not qualify as an invitee because she was not there to make a purchase.

But the court granted her claim. The court said management has the same responsibility toward a potential customer as toward an actual customer.

Even stepping out of bounds will not reduce the shopper's rights if he has been given permission to do so.

A customer at the cleaners could not find the claim check for his topcoat. The clerk suggested that they both go into the back room for a look. There, the man fell through a hard-to-notice trap door.

A court decided later that the clerk's permission had kept the customer in the role of an invitee even in the back room. Result: he won a substantial verdict.

Solar Energy Given Plug

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Unless this nation shifts "massively to solar energy...the country will be bankrupted by the energy program," Dr. Barry Commoner predicted Friday night.

Speaking at a national energy forum at the University of Akron, Commoner, who is director of Washington University's Center for Biology of Natural Systems, said the present design for the energy program is "a blueprint for economic disaster."

He said the rise in cost of energy in this country is unprecedented in relation to the rest of the economy and charged that "everything the administration has done is designed to continue that rise in the cost of energy."

He said if the present plan is carried out, the cost of energy will continue to rise for 75 years.

"The country couldn't stand it for 20 years," he said, adding that the only way to "flatten the cost curve is going to be solar energy."

Commoner said the capital cost of nuclear power plants is rising at a tremendous rate, with most of the increased cost going to meet demands for safety and environmental control.

"I don't think there is any doubt at this point that the nuclear power industry is going to fade away on economic grounds," he declared.

"Don't get caught with your winter heating bills up."

Join our Budget Payment Plan. Prepare for winter. Now!

- Improve your attic insulation.
- Have your gas furnace checked.
- Join Columbia's Budget Payment Plan.

The Budget Payment Plan spreads your yearly heating bills over twelve monthly payments. It doesn't eliminate the chill of winter weather, but it sure takes the shiver out of winter heating bills. Over the course of the year you still pay the same total amount for gas. But come January and February when you're getting those big Christmas bills, you won't be getting those big heating bills too.

How the Budget Payment Plan works—

Your Budget Payment account will be reviewed and adjusted, if necessary, in April. In July you will be billed the amount necessary to settle your account. The example shown illustrates the way the plan works (naturally, the amounts in your own account will be different).

The Budget Payment Plan year begins in August.

But beyond this safety zone, he is a mere "licensee" — entitled, as Ben learned to his sorrow, to only a minimum of protection.

If the shopper does stay within bounds, he retains his preferred status as an invitee even if not in the process of actually buying something. Thus:

Another shopper skidded on a grease spot on her way to the pay telephone in a grocery store. The store denied liability, saying she did not qualify as an invitee because she was not there to make a purchase.

But the court granted her claim. The court said management has the same responsibility toward a potential customer as toward an actual customer.

Even stepping out of bounds will not reduce the shopper's rights if he has been given permission to do so.

A customer at the cleaners could not find the claim check for his topcoat. The clerk suggested that they both go into the back room for a look. There, the man fell through a hard-to-notice trap door.

A court decided later that the clerk's permission had kept the customer in the role of an invitee even in the back room. Result: he won a substantial verdict.

Solar Energy Given Plug

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Unless this nation shifts "massively to solar energy...the country will be bankrupted by the energy program," Dr. Barry Commoner predicted Friday night.

Speaking at a national energy forum at the University of Akron, Commoner, who is director of Washington University's Center for Biology of Natural Systems, said the present design for the energy program is "a blueprint for economic disaster."

He said the rise in cost of energy in this country is unprecedented in relation to the rest of the economy and charged that "everything the administration has done is designed to continue that rise in the cost of energy."

He said if the present plan is carried out, the cost of energy will continue to rise for 75 years.

"The country couldn't stand it for 20 years," he said, adding that the "only way to "flatten he cost curve is going to be solar energy."

Commoner said the capital cost of nuclear power plants is rising at a tremendous rate, with most of the increased cost going to meet demands for safety and environmental control.

"I don't think there is any doubt at this point that the nuclear power industry is going to fade away on economic grounds," he declared.

*Woolly Bear sez:

"Don't get caught with your winter heating bills up."

Join our Budget Payment Plan. Prepare for winter. Now!

- Improve your attic insulation.
- Have your gas furnace checked.
- Join Columbia's Budget Payment Plan.

The Budget Payment Plan spreads your yearly heating bills over twelve monthly payments. It doesn't eliminate the chill of winter weather, but it sure takes the shiver out of winter heating bills. Over the course of the year you still pay the same total amount for gas. But come January and February when you're getting those big Christmas bills, you won't be getting those big heating bills too.

How the Budget Payment Plan works—

Your Budget Payment account will be reviewed and adjusted, if necessary, in April. In July you will be billed the amount necessary to settle your account. The example shown illustrates the way the plan works (naturally, the amounts in your own account will be different).

The Budget Payment Plan year begins in August.
See your Budget Payment amount on your August gas bill.

DOG SHOW FINISHER

The 31st Annual Pickaway County Fair raced out to its best start in years, lending credence to the claim that this may be the biggest and best ever.

Crowds of spectators took advantage of the unseasonably cool temperatures to stop at the many exhibits and watch the opening-day competitions.

They saw impressive opening ceremonies, which featured former Pickaway Countian Mark List, now assistant director of agriculture; Oakley Collins, Myrl Shoemaker, L. Robert Liston, Don Strous, Dwight Radcliff, Paul Dean, the Rev. Don Baker, and the VFW Color Guard.

They saw Kim Craig win the Dog Show, Lisa Raymond capture the Bicycle Rodeo, Donna Warner win two classes in the Garden Tractor Pull, and Gloria Snodgrass, Andy Houser, Shannon Cavanaugh, Jo Trapp, and Norma Faulkner win Best of Show awards in the Art Show.

Project judging will highlight today's events, although the Harness Racing and Open Barrow Show promise to attract much attention. And the International Daredevils will perform at the grandstand at 8 p.m.

Olympic Games Over

MONTREAL (AP) — The 1976 Summer Olympics are over.

Now the question is, are the Olympics over? Has the world outgrown the vision of Baron de Coubertin, who sought brotherhood through sports in founding the modern Games in 1892? Has, as International Olympic Committee director Monique Berlioux said, the soul gone out of the Olympics?

The Games ended Sunday, as they started more than two weeks ago, with pomp and ceremony clouded by controversy and international political wrangling.

They ended with the Soviet Union, the host country for the 1980 Games and the country whose athletes won the most medals here, accusing Canada of kidnapping a 17-year-old diver and angrily demanding his return to Russian control.

It was symbolic of the course of the Games — athletes serving as pawns in a larger game, mere walk-on participants on a global stage concerned with politics, international diplomacy, racial tensions, wheat deals, fears, security.

"They have placed an iron collar on the Olympics," said Madame Berlioux. "The soul has gone. The Olympic spirit is missing."

The next Games are in Moscow, four years from now. There is no way of knowing how they will fare. There are reports from China indicating that enormous nation, not an Olympic participant, may stage conflicting games with invitations to the 28 African nations that boycotted the XXI Olympiad.

Beyond Moscow, the future is even more cloudy. Conflicting proposals have been made — disperse the Olympics among various countries, or give the Games a permanent site in Greece.

Phillip Krumm, the head of the United States Olympic Committee, opposed the latter suggestion and insisted that (1) the Games will continue and (2) the Americans will improve. "The name and the Games will carry on," he said, but noticed, "we face some gigantic problems of organization."

As to the Americans' performance, which ended on a high note Saturday, Krumm said, "We did better than the last Olympics against tougher competition. We spend $1 million a year on team development. The East Germans spend $50 million. We are the only country that does not have some government assistance."

The Americans won eight gold medals Saturday, five of them in boxing, for their best showing of the Games. But there was disappointment, too. They lost a couple they figured to win — Frank Shorter in the marathon and Dwight Stones in the high jump.

The United States finished with 34 gold medals, 35 silver and 25 bronze, a total of 94. Russia led with a count of 47-43-35, 125. East Germany, backed by a massive government subsidy program, produced 40-25-25, 90 overall. Most of them came from its women, who dominated the swimming events almost to the extent the American men ruled theirs.

Shirley Babashoff, America's top woman swimmer who won three silver and a gold, cast a glance at the broad-shouldered East German women and sniffed:

"I'm glad I don't have to walk around my neighborhood looking like a guy."

The East German women won both their relays in the final day of track and field, and the American men won both of theirs.

Harvey Glance, Phoenix City, Ala.; Johnny Jones, Lampasas, Tex.; Millard Hampton, San Jose, Calif., and Steve Riddick, Philadelphia, won the 400-meter relay in 38.33 seconds.

The quartet of Harvey Frazier, Philadelphia; Bennie Brown, Malpitas, Calif.; Fred Newhouse, Baton Rouge, La., and Maxie Parks, Los Angeles, won the 1,600 meters easily in 2:58.66.

Those were the fifth and sixth gold medals collected by the Americans in track and field, a sport they once dominated. They expected to win the marathon, where Shorter was defending, and the high jump, where the flamboyant Stones holds the world record.

But an obscure East German, a converted steeplechaser named Waldemar Cierpinski, swept through a steady rain in an Olympic record 2 hours, 9 minutes and 55 seconds, putting Shorter behind him with about five miles to go in the 26-mile, 385-yard test. Shorter took the silver medal in 2:10:45.8. Lasse Viren, the bearded Finn who won the 5,000-and 10,000-meter races, finished fifth in his quest for a distance triple.

In the high jump, Poland's Jacek Wszola won at 7 feet, 4½ inches. Stones was third at 7-3.

John Walker of New Zealand won as expected with a slow, strategic 3:39.17 in the 1,500 meters. Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, the world record holder at the distance, was among the missing. His nation boycotted the Games.

Ivanka Khristova of Bulgaria won the only other track and field gold of the final day with a throw of 69-5 in the women's shot put.

John Peterson, a farmer's son from Comstock, Wis., won the 180-pound freestyle wrestling gold medal and his brother Ben took the silver at 198 pounds.

There was a brother act in the boxers, too. Middleweight Mike Spinks, St. Louis, won his division and older brother Leon, a U.S. Marine stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C., won the gold in the light-heavy class. Leo Randolph, Tacoma, Wash., won at 112 pounds, Howard Davis, Glen Cove, N.Y., took the gold at 132 pounds and Sugar Ray Leonard, Palmer Park, Md., won at 140.

The only American loser in the final round was Army Sgt. Charles Mooney, Ft. Bragg, N.C., at 119 pounds. The United States finished with five gold, a silver and a bronze, by far its best boxing showing ever.

The Games closed Sunday night with France winning the equestrian team jumping gold medal, followed by West Germany and Belgium.

Only six athletes from each nation marched in the closing ceremony Sunday night, followed by the traditional lighting of candles, extinguishing of the Olympic flame and singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Then they took their memories and their medals and dispersed to the far corners of the world.

The memories may be better than the medals.

The gold medals are only gold plated.

Thieves Take Merchandise From Auto

Thieves took $255 in merchandise, including $25 in change, from a car owned by William Harman, Route 1, Orient.

The incident occurred 11:35 p.m. Sunday at the Darby Tavern parking lot, according to Harman, who apparently spotted the car used by thieves to make their escape.

The thieves apparently entered the unlocked car and took the cash from the glove box. They found Harman's car keys on the dash and used them to gain entrance to the trunk.

Two Black and Decker circular saws, a saber saw, and a buck saw were taken from the trunk of the vehicle.

Campus Notes

Two Pickaway Countians graduated cum laude from Miami University during the June 13 commencement ceremonies.

Amy Clare Mehalick, 319 Woodland received her bachelor of fine arts degree and William Clell Autrey Jr., New Holland, received his bachelor of science in business degree.

Sheril Lynn Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Barr Jr., Ashville, will be a member of the freshman class at Muskingum College, New Concord, this fall.

She attended Teays Valley High School and was a member of the Future Nurse's Club, the Spanish Club, Latin Club, National Honor Society, 4-H, Luther League, Junior Leaders, FHA, Tennis Club, Library Staff, newspaper, chorus, class officer, scouting and did church work.

Miss Barr is interested in biology and chemistry and the pre-medical program at Muskingum.

Jeffrey Scott Reichelderfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned A. Reichelderfer, Tarlton, will also be a member of the freshman class of Muskingum College, this September.

Scott graduated sixth in his class from Logan Elm High School and was a member of the National Honor Society, Varsity Club, attended Boy's State, was captain of the football and basketball teams and was voted the most valuable student in Pickaway County.

He will enroll in the pre-veterinary medicine program at Muskingum.

Senior Citizens Facilities At State Fair Improved

Senior Citizens visiting the 1976 Ohio State Fair will be treated to better facilities for their specialized activities.

Up to now, the Senior Citizen's programs were staged in two large tents that proved to be inadequate.

This year, all activities will be centrally located in the Columbus Building.

In addition to Senior Citizen talent shows, award presentations, and musical concerts by the Ohio State Fair Band, Choir and Symphony, various Senior Citizen organizations will be present with useful information.

The National Council of Senior Citizens National Association of Retired Federal Employees; American Association of Retired Persons National Retired Teachers; Medicare; Social Security; 14 Ohio Area Agencies on Aging; The Ohio Commission on Aging; the Golden Buckeye Discount Program; The Arthritis Foundation; and Labor Retirees will have manned exhibits with resource people and printed material available.

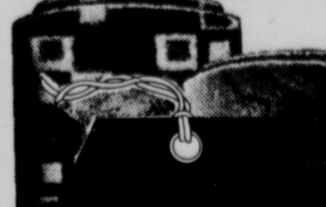

In addition, handmade Senior Citizen craft items will be for sale with all articles priced under $5.

All Senior Citizen activities are planned for the first ten days of the twelve day fair from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Senior Citizen admission tickets can be purchased for half price through September 3 from the Ohio Commission on Aging, 34 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Over 30,000 Senior Citizens are expected at this year's Ohio State Fair, "The Showcase of the American Spirit." Ohio's Biggest Show is scheduled from August 26 through Labor Day, September 6.

Bengals Edge Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Archie Griffin, who felt he had something to prove, did just that.

And the Green Bay Packers felt they had done some proving of their own — while conceding that virtually all they had accomplished had occurred in the first half Saturday night.

Griffin, two-time Heisman Trophy winner from Ohio State, rushed 12 times for 49 yards and a touchdown, all in the second half.

The rookie's running complemented the passing of reserve John Reaves, who completed 11 of 14 for 81 yards after intermission as the Cincinnati Bengals overcame a 14-0 deficit to beat the Packers 23-17 in a National Football League pre-season opener for both clubs.

"It definitely gave me confidence," said Griffin, who had joined the Bengals just seven days earlier from the College All-Star camp.

Thought by many to be too small at 5-foot-9 and 189 pounds to succeed in the NFL, Griffin swept for 20 yards to the Packer 13-yard line, then scored from the three for a 16-14 Cincinnati lead.

Joe Danelo's 20-yard field goal put Green Bay ahead 17-16 in the final quarter and the Bengals took over on their 24 with 9:01 to play.

Griffin then made two nine-yard gains as the Bengals marched in 16 plays to the winning touchdown, scored by Ed Williams from two yards out with 15 seconds left.

Crashes Kill 6 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Six persons lost their lives in weekend traffic accidents in Ohio with motorcyclists accounting for three of the deaths. All of the fatalities occurred Friday evening and Saturday.

The Highway Patrol keeps the weekend count from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chilly temperatures moved into the state overnight, reaching at least one record low for the date. Akron's 50 degree mark tied the record set in 1974. The cool spot in the state at dawn was Youngstown with 49.

Highs today were expected to improve to the 70s, with cool temperatures again tonight in the upper 40s to the low 50s.

An area of unstable air was moving down out of lower Michigan and was to move across Ohio during the day. Some light showers were likely along with a few widely scattered thundershowers in the unstable air this afternoon.

The showers and thundershowers will linger in the southern part of Ohio tonight but generally fair and warmer weather will prevail by Tuesday. Highs Tuesday will return to the low to mid 80s.

Senior Citizens Facilities At State Fair Improved

Senior Citizens visiting the 1976 Ohio State Fair will be treated to better facilities for their specialized activities.

Up to now, the Senior Citizen's programs were staged in two large tents that proved to be inadequate.

This year, all activities will be centrally located in the Columbus Building.

In addition to Senior Citizen talent shows, award presentations, and musical concerts by the Ohio State Fair Band, Choir and Symphony, various Senior Citizen organizations will be present with useful information.

The National Council of Senior Citizens National Association of Retired Federal Employees; American Association of Retired Persons National Retired Teachers; Medicare; Social Security; 14 Ohio Area Agencies on Aging; The Ohio Commission on Aging; the Golden Buckeye Discount Program; The Arthritis Foundation; and Labor Retirees will have manned exhibits with resource people and printed material available.

In addition, handmade Senior Citizen craft items will be for sale with all articles priced under $5.

All Senior Citizen activities are planned for the first ten days of the twelve day fair from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Senior Citizen admission tickets can be purchased for half price through September 3 from the Ohio Commission on Aging, 34 North High Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Over 30,000 Senior Citizens are expected at this year's Ohio State Fair, "The Showcase of the American Spirit." Ohio's Biggest Show is scheduled from August 26 through Labor Day, September 6.

Bengals Edge Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Archie Griffin, who felt he had something to prove, did just that.

And the Green Bay Packers felt they had done some proving of their own — while conceding that virtually all they had accomplished had occurred in the first half Saturday night.

Griffin, two-time Heisman Trophy winner from Ohio State, rushed 12 times for 49 yards and a touchdown, all in the second half.

The rookie's running complemented the passing of reserve John Reaves, who completed 11 of 14 for 81 yards after intermission as the Cincinnati Bengals overcame a 14-0 deficit to beat the Packers 23-17 in a National Football League pre-season opener for both clubs.

"It definitely gave me confidence," said Griffin, who had joined the Bengals just seven days earlier from the College All-Star camp.

Thought by many to be too small at 5-foot-9 and 189 pounds to succeed in the NFL, Griffin swept for 20 yards to the Packer 13-yard line, then scored from the three for a 16-14 Cincinnati lead.

Joe Danelo's 20-yard field goal put Green Bay ahead 17-16 in the final quarter and the Bengals took over on their 24 with 9:01 to play.

Griffin then made two nine-yard gains as the Bengals marched in 16 plays to the winning touchdown, scored by Ed Williams from two yards out with 15 seconds left.

Crashes Kill 6 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Six persons lost their lives in weekend traffic accidents in Ohio with motorcyclists accounting for three of the deaths. All of the fatalities occurred Friday evening and Saturday.

The Highway Patrol keeps the weekend count from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SATURDAY
PORTSMOUTH — Pamela M. Hammond, 19, of McDermott, in a motorcycle accident on a rural road near Sciotoville.

CLEVELAND — George Snyder, 30, of Warrensville Heights, when he lost control of his motorcycle on Miles Road and slammed into a chain link fence in Bedford Heights.

CLEVELAND — Douglas Dolney, 24, of Cleveland, when thrown from his motorcycle when hit by a passing car.

ASHLAND — Terrance Sweet, 30, of Ashland in a one-car accident on U.S. 250 near Ashland.

FELICITY — Stephen Liming, 27, Felicity, in a single-car crash on Ohio 133 in Clermont County.

FRIDAY NIGHT

CINCINNATI — Jerry Scuder, 30, of Clevel, in a one-car accident on a Hamilton County road.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chilly temperatures moved into the state overnight, reaching at least one record low for the date. Akron's 50 degree mark tied the record set in 1974. The cool spot in the state at dawn was Youngstown with 49.

Highs today were expected to improve to the 70s, with cool temperatures again tonight in the upper 40s to the low 50s.

An area of unstable air was moving down out of lower Michigan and was to move across Ohio during the day. Some light showers were likely along with a few widely scattered thundershowers in the unstable air this afternoon.

The showers and thundershowers will linger in the southern part of Ohio tonight but generally fair and warmer weather will prevail by Tuesday. Highs Tuesday will return to the low to mid 80s.

Reds Trip Padres For 5-4 Victory, Sweep Of Series

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Randy Jones wanted to pick up his San Diego Padres by picking up his 19th victory of the season. The team had lost seven of the last eight games — the only victory coming in his last start — and the time was ripe for Jones to top the Reds again as he had done the last four times he had faced them.

But all Randy Jones picked up Sunday was his fifth loss, because his sinker picked up when it was supposed to have dropped.

"I just made two mistakes," said Jones, who is entitled to two after recording more than one-third of his club's victories this year. "I wanted to pick the ball club up. I was really excited. I realized I couldn't make too many mistakes against the Reds."

Two turned out to be too many. "I hung a sinker to (George) Foster and the big thing was hanging a sinker to (Doug) Flynn."

The first mistake, in the fourth inning, became Foster's 23rd home run of the season and 92nd run batted in. Flynn sent the second miscue into center field for the single that scored the eventual winning runs in the 5-4 Reds triumph.

In the other National League games Sunday, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 2-0; Chicago trimmed St. Louis 2-1 in 10 innings; Philadelphia swept New York 7-6 in 11 innings and 2-0; Houston topped Atlanta 6-0, then Los Angeles stopped San Francisco 4-1 and 4-3 in 10 innings.

Expos 2, Pirates 0

Wayne Garrett's first-inning triple and an eighth-inning RBI single by Ellis Valentine backed a five-hitter by Steve Rogers in the Expos' victory.

Cubs 2, Cardinals 1

Two mistakes nearly cost Chicago a victory. After breaking up John Denny's no-hitter with two outs in the eighth and taking a 1-0 lead, a ninth-inning three-base error by left fielder Jose Cardenal preceded one by first baseman by Pete LaCock, permitting the tying run to score.

LaCock atoned for his foulup in the 10th, driving in the winning run with a single off Denny. "I don't want to talk to you vultures," a distressed Denny said to newsmen. "Get away from me."

Phillies 7-2, Mets 6-0

Mike Schmidt's 27th homer of the season took the nightcap for Philadelphia after Garry Maddox' 11th-inning single scored Jay Johnstone from first base to win the opener. Greg Luzinski had a grand slam in the opener, but New York came back to tie it in the ninth inning.

Astros 6, Braves 0

Larry Dierker's five-hit shutout of Logan Man Wins Motocross

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Earl Bowlby of Logan, Ohio, captured his second national motorcycle hillclimbing title Sunday in the National Championship Hill Climb held at Muskegon's Mt. Garfield.

Bowlby's time of 5.294 seconds was good enough to give him the Class A (professional) top prize, including winnings of $1,020. He last won the American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned event in 1968.

David Mosley of Allan, Ky. was first in the Class B amateur division with a time of 6.128 seconds, and took home $750 in prize money.

Placing second in Class A was James Thompson of Gahanna, Ohio, with 5.622 seconds, and third place went to Jerry Kinzer of Prestonberg, Ky. with a time of 5.638.

Two cyclists from Laureville, Ohio, took second and third place in class B. James Clark had a time of 6.192 for second and Keith Grooms took third with 6.244.

More than 10,000 spectators turned out to watch the field of 15 professionals and 15 amateurs compete in the annual national championships. Qualifiers were determined by points accumulated in motorcycle hillclimb events across the country earlier in the year.

Lancaster Sets Softball Tourney

The Lancaster Parks and Recreation Department announced that it is organizing a "Class B" Mens Slo-Pitch Softball Tournament to be held during the Labor Day Holiday weekend.

The tournament will be double-elimination with all games being played at Miller Park in Lancaster beginning September 4th.

Team trophies will be awarded to the top four teams with members of the first place team also receiving individual wind-breaker jackets and tournament patch.

Send or call for tournament fact sheet and entry form. Phone 654-6882 or stop at the Parks and Recreation office in Rising Park. Contact Al Brown, Tournament director, Lancaster, Parks and Recreation, 203 E. Fair Ave., Lancaster, 43130. All entries must be in tournament directors hands by August 27, 1976.

Atlanta was his second in a row overall, his third in a row at home and his fourth of the season. Jose Cruz drove in two runs and had three hits to pace the victory.

Dodgers 4-4, San Francisco 1-3

Reliever Charlie Hough picked up his ninth save of the season by protecting Don Sutton's victory in the opener, then won the nightcap on his own as the Dodgers swept the Giants. Bill Buckner had seven hits in the doubleheader but did not drive in a run.

Reds Trip Padres For 5-4 Victory, Sweep Of Series

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Randy Jones wanted to pick up his San Diego Padres by picking up his 19th victory of the season. The team had lost seven of the last eight games — the only victory coming in his last start — and the time was ripe for Jones to top the Reds again as he had done the last four times he had faced them.

But all Randy Jones picked up Sunday was his fifth loss, because his sinker picked up when it was supposed to have dropped.

"I just made two mistakes," said Jones, who is entitled to two after recording more than one-third of his club's victories this year. "I wanted to pick the ball club up. I was really excited. I realized I couldn't make too many mistakes against the Reds."

Two turned out to be too many. "I hung a sinker to (George) Foster and the big thing was hanging a sinker to (Doug) Flynn."

The first mistake, in the fourth inning, became Foster's 23rd home run of the season and 92nd run batted in. Flynn sent the second miscue into center field for the single that scored the eventual winning runs in the 5-4 Reds triumph.

In the other National League games Sunday, Montreal blanked Pittsburgh 2-0; Chicago trimmed St. Louis 2-1 in 10 innings; Philadelphia swept New York 7-6 in 11 innings and 2-0; Houston topped Atlanta 6-0, then Los Angeles stopped San Francisco 4-1 and 4-3 in 10 innings.

Expos 2, Pirates 0
Wayne Garrett's first-inning triple and an eighth-inning RBI single by Ellis Valentine backed a five-hit by Steve Rogers in the Expos' victory.

Cubs 2, Cardinals 1
Two mistakes nearly cost Chicago a victory. After breaking up John Denny's no-hitter with two outs in the eighth and taking a 1-0 lead, a ninth-inning three-base error by left fielder Jose Cardenal preceded one by first baseman by Pete LaCock, permitting the tying run to score.

LaCock atoned for his foulup in the 10th, driving in the winning run with a single off Denny. "I don't want to talk to you vultures," a distressed Denny said to newsmen. "Get away from me."

Phillies 7-2, Mets 6-0
Mike Schmidt's 27th homer of the season took the nightcap for Philadelphia after Garry Maddox' 11th-inning single scored Jay Johnstone from first base to win the opener. Greg Luzinski had a grand slam in the opener, but New York came back to tie it in the ninth inning.

Astros 6, Braves 0
Larry Dierker's five-hit shutout of

Logan Man Wins Motocross

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Earl Bowlby of Logan, Ohio, captured his second national motorcycle hillclimbing title Sunday in the National Championship Hill Climb held at Muskegon's Mt. Garfield.

Bowlby's time of 5.294 seconds was good enough to give him the Class A (professional) top prize, including winnings of $1,020. He last won the American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned event in 1968.

David Mosley of Allan, Ky. was first in the Class B amateur division with a time of 6.128 seconds, and took home $750 in prize money.

Placing second in Class A was James Thompson of Gahanna, Ohio, with 5.622 seconds, and third place went to Jerry Kinzer of Prestonberg, Ky. with a time of 5.638.

Two cyclists from Laurelville, Ohio, took second and third place in class B. James Clark had a time of 6.192 for second and Keith Grooms took third with 6.244.

More than 10,000 spectators turned out to watch the field of 15 professionals and 15 amateurs compete in the annual national championships. Qualifiers were determined by points accumulated in motorcycle hillclimb events across the country earlier in the year.

Lancaster Sets Softball Tourney

The Lancaster Parks and Recreation Department announced that it is organizing a "Class B" Mens Slo-Pitch Softball Tournament to be held during the Labor Day Holiday weekend.

The tournament will be double-elimination with all games being played at Miller Park in Lancaster beginning September 4th.

Team trophies will be awarded to the top four teams with members of the first place team also receiving individual wind-breaker jackets and tournament patch.

Send or call for tournament fact sheet and entry form. Phone 654-6882 or stop at the Parks and Recreation office in Rising Park. Contact Al Brown, Tournament director, Lancaster, Parks and Recreation, 203 E. Fair Ave., Lancaster, 43130. All entries must be in tournament directors hands by August 27, 1976.

Atlanta was his second in a row overall, his third in a row at home and his fourth of the season. Jose Cruz drove in two runs and had three hits to pace the victory.

Dodgers 4-4, San Francisco 1-3
Reliever Charlie Hough picked up his ninth save of the season by protecting Don Sutton's victory in the opener, then won the nightcap on his own as the Dodgers swept the Giants. Bill Buckner had seven hits in the doubleheader but did not drive in a run.

DLC-78
RETREADS
Double-belted for long tread wear.
Wide tread with "wrap around" design for good traction and control in cornering.
Same aggressive tread design as our Radial Deluxe Champion new tire.
Interlocking tread elements for excellent stop and start traction on wet pavement.

DLC-78 RETREAD LIMITED WARRANTY
If a Firestone passenger retread becomes unusable in normal driving, we will replace it with another retread providing a claim is made during the first 100% of tread wear or the first 18,000 miles (whichever comes first). Thereafter, the tire will be replaced on a pro-rata basis, charging only for the tread wear off, based on the then current adjustment price (adjusted for seasonal average selling price plus service and taxes).
EXCEPTIONS: Road hazard damage must be adjusted only during the first 100% of tread wear. Adjustment is pro-rata, or for a 52.50 minimum charge, whichever is greater. No replacement will be made for vandalism, abuse, accident or repairable puncture.

CIRCLEVILLE GIRLS MAJOR SOFTBALL TOURNEY
Circleville's team battled their way to the championship of the loser's bracket after losing an 8-3 decision to Stoutsville in their second tournament game.

It was a 27-2 win for Circleville over Amanda that gave them the loser's bracket and sent them into the finals against Stoutsville who was the champion of the winner's bracket. It was a double elimination affair and Circleville stopped Stoutsville, 23-2, in the opening round of the tournament finals Sunday to set up the championship game 7 p.m. tonight at Ted Lewis Park.

HILLIARD TOURNAMENT
Shadywood Red 4

Circleville 10-Year-Old Stars 2
Circleville became runnersup in the tournament as a two-run rally in the sixth inning fell short. They had dropped their second game in the tournament to throw them into the loser's bracket but battled back with seven straight wins, including a 6-5 verdict over Shadywood Red, before bowing out.

David Delong and Randy Huffer shared the mound for Circleville while Pollock, T. Miller and M. Miller performed the mound duties for Shadywood.

Peter Kazmierczak led Circleville

Claim OSU Recruiting Acts Illegal

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Woody Hayes and his Ohio State football machine allegedly have been using funds from alumni groups in recruiting prospective student athletes in violation of NCAA and Big Ten rules, according to a student newspaper at Michigan State University.

Sources have told the State News, the daily student newspaper at Michigan State, that police officers and a former high school football coach have received monetary compensation in exchange for transporting prospects to the Columbus campus for visits.

One source, who was close to the Buckeye grid scene for several years, told the State News that two Warren, Ohio, police officers received $75 and $60 respectively from member of an Ohio State alumni group in the Warren, Ohio area.

The source, who requested anonymity in exchange for information, stated that Warren police officer William Misocky received $60 in January 1975 from Frank Lafferty, a member of the OSU alumni association, to transport Kelton Dangler to Columbus for a recruiting visit.

Misocky, an eight-year veteran of the force who was assigned to Warren G. Harding High School as juvenile officer when the incident occurred, admitted he was involved, saying, "Yes, I remember taking Dangler to OSU and yes, Frank Lafferty gave me $60 to cover expenses."

Such payment is illegal according to NCAA and Big Ten rules.

with two hits while Luke McConnell, Jay Sharrett and David Delong each rapped a hit.

Circleville won the Team Sportsmanship Trophy and also placed Tim Campbell, Randy Huffer and Peter Kazmierczak were named to the All-Tournament team.

Kevin Weaver, Barry Sealock and Tommy Tomlinson all took a turn on the hill for Circleville. Barry Sealock paced the attack with four hits including a home run and double.

John Cordle slammed three hits including a triple and double, Willie Uhl rapped two hits, Tommy Tomlinson belted three hits including a homer and triple, Dusty Miller slapped a double, Jimmy Lewis slugged a homer, Fred Pyles cracked three hits including a four-bagger, Dave Justus ripped two hits, Tony Cooper had a double and single, Fred Styers tagged a double while John Grabbans, Jeff Williams, Jeff Miller and Kevin Weaver each had a hit.

Circleville will meet Stanley and Son 6 p.m. Wednesday.

TRI COUNTY MOSQUITO LEAGUE
Pickaway 2-18
Laurelville 0

Jim Rhoads fired a two-hitter and fanned 14 as Pickaway finished the season with a 10-2 mark and captured the league championship. Rowland, R. White and Boggs pitched for Laurelville.

Mike Griffey and Tony Martin each rapped four hits for the winners, Jeff Icenhour, Jim Rhoads and Brad Bell each slammed two while Tom Reeves and Phil Long each added one. Mosmeier and R. White had a hit apiece to account for Laurelville's totals.

Teams Tie In ABCD Tourney At PCC

The teams of Dwight Fraser, Ed Wolfe, Cotty Radcliff and Dick Williams and Jerry Jones, Paul Mayberry, Dick Theis and Bud Enoch both tallied 179 points to tie for first place in the ABCD Point Tournament Sunday at Pickaway Country Club.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR MONDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You'll do best now by cooperating with others instead of insisting on your own way. Some friction possible in the latter case.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Advance a new idea, enlist the help of others to put it across. Under prevailing influences, you should win new benefits, advance your status.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Some planetary restrictions. Be cautious in budgetary matters and do control emotions. Some situations will call for unusual tact.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A recently proffered suggestion to which you may not have given much thought could, quite unexpectedly, open new doors to progress. Think about it NOW.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Do not try to change pre-planned activities or reverse tactics without giving others adequate notice. Careful explanation of your decisions can prevent misunderstandings.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stars especially encourage job and business matters. Take a chance on a new idea, but do not launch unless fully prepared.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Artistic pursuits and personal relationships need extra care now. You may have to reckon with some unforeseen happenings, may have to take a longer range view in planning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Curb emotions and do not let them become a factor in making vital decisions. Stress objectivity, realism.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Conditions not pleasing in all areas. Look over the whole picture and you'll see that there are more benefits than liabilities to count, and more to gain than lose.

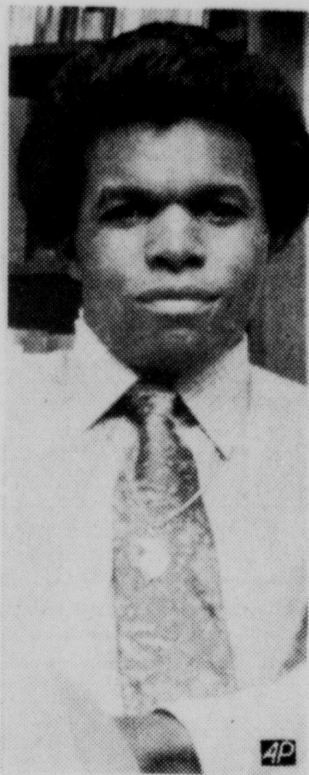

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Erase slate for a clean, fresh beginning, even though old matters carry over. In this manner, you can brighten your outlook, will be more responsive to unexpected changes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Planetary influences stimulate keen and quick thinking; generate inspiring ideas which could be of great benefit to organizations or to your community.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some of your best ideas may come when you least expect them. Make a note of anything that comes to your mind now, as it may prove profitable later.

YOU BORN TODAY, like most Leolites, present an outward appearance of self-confidence and self-assuredness but, unlike most others born under your Sign, this often masks an inner feeling of timidity and insecurity. Try to curb this self-doubt for you have been endowed with so many fine characteristics and talents that, properly educated, of course, there are no heights which you cannot attain. Surest avenues of success: The stage, literature, science and the law. If attracted to business, manufacturing would be your best bet but, in such case, be sure to have some artistic outlet for contentment and fulfillment. Birthdate of: John Tyndall, Brit. physicist; John Kieran, journalist, author; James Baldwin, author; Peter O'Toole, film star.

SAYERS AT SIU — Former Chicago Bears running back Gale Sayers has been named men's athletic director at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

The Mayo Clinic was established at Rochester, Minn., in 1889 by William W. Mayo and his two sons, William and Charles.

The water ran off the mountain as rain also pelted the canyon itself. It funneled into the canyon, 150 yards wide at the most, between bluffs hundreds of feet high.

The rescue work — ferrying by helicopter, carrying wounded, leading groups out of danger by foot — was being done Sunday and today by National Guardsmen, sheriff's deputies, and search and rescue teams.

Forty National Guardsmen were airlifted in teams of two and three to bring food, water and medical supplies to those still trapped. Watson said it might be the last part of the week before all the victims finally are reached.

The dead were brought to an old hospital where they awaited identification. Officials said the process would be slow because most were recovered without clothing.

Dr. Patrick Allen, deputy county coroner, said only one positive identification had been made by early today. The victim was W. Hugh Purdy, 53, a 26-year veteran of the state patrol.

Many of the survivors were taken to a nearby high school lunchroom where local residents brought relief supplies.

Police Check Two Accidents

Circleville City Policemen investigated two injury-causing accidents during the weekend.

Terry L. Hicks, 20, 202 Nicholas Drive, was injured when he drove his motorcycle into a car driven by Donald D. Nance, 62, 702 S. Court St. at 2:45 p.m. Saturday.

The accident caused severe damage to the motorcycle and moderate damage to the auto. Hicks was taken to Berger Hospital by the emergency medical squad.

According to police report, Nance was southbound on S. Court St. and started to turn left onto W. Ohio St. when Hicks struck the car as he traveled northbound on Court St.

George M. Burke, 20, Lancaster, was cited by city police for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs and driving while his operators license was under revocation after Burke sideswiped two parked cars and ran into a fence on property owned by Dave Dresbach, 237 N. Scioto St.

According to police, Burke was going east on W. High Street and told the officer that he swerved to miss a car making a turn. However, a passenger, William H. LaGrow, 21, Route 3, and another witness, claimed that there was no other car.

Burked suffered a possible broken nose and cut.

William Lagrow was taken to University Hospital.

The damaged cars belong to Richard E. Caldwell, 213 W. High St., and Kathryn Foece, 211 W. High St.

Woman Breaks Leg While Playing Ball

Linda E. Agin, 23, 359 E. Union St., underwent surgery today in a Columbus hospital to repair a fractured leg she suffered while playing softball at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

She was given emergency treatment by the Circleville Emergency Medical team and Berger Hospital personnel before being admitted to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, for treatment of the fracture to her upper left leg.

The incident occurred 4:15 p.m. Saturday at Diamond 3 at the fairgrounds where she was playing left field for the Church of Christ in Christian Union team.

She was apparently running down a fly ball hit over her head when she fell on a downward incline near the race track fence, according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Lori Stoops, 16 Ashville, one of 12 members of an Ashville Church group who were hiking to A. W. Marion State Park Saturday morning, was struck by the mirror of a passing van.

The mirror inflicted bruises to her left shoulder, according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies. However, she did not require emergency treatment.

The incident occurred on Route 752 deputies said. Driver of the van did not stop, but Deputies believe it is owned by a Lithopolis man.

Woman Breaks Leg While Playing Ball

Linda E. Agin, 23, 359 E. Union St., underwent surgery today in a Columbus hospital to repair a fractured leg she suffered while playing softball at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

She was given emergency treatment by the Circleville Emergency Medical team and Berger Hospital personnel before being admitted to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, for treatment of the fracture to her upper left leg.

The incident occurred 4:15 p.m. Saturday at Diamond 3 at the fairgrounds where she was playing left field for the Church of Christ in Christian Union team.

She was apparently running down a fly ball hit over her head when she fell on a downward incline near the race track fence, according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Lori Stoops, 16 Ashville, one of 12 members of an Ashville Church group who were hiking to A. W. Marion State Park Saturday morning, was struck by the mirror of a passing van.

The mirror inflicted bruises to her left shoulder, according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies. However, she did not require emergency treatment.

The incident occurred on Route 752 deputies said. Driver of the van did not stop, but Deputies believe it is owned by a Lithopolis man.
